COLONEL

Applies Soft Pedal
In Speech at Boston Mass.

DECLARING HE DOES NOT DE-SIRE TO INDULGE IN PER-SONAL ATTACKS.

NEITHER DOES HE DENY
SUPPORT OF PERKINS.

SOME REANTOWN CLOWN TOS-SES HAT INTO ARENA
WHEN TEDDY APPEARS.

By United Press.
Boston, Mass., April 27.—Addressing one of the largest meeting he has encountered since he "threw his hat in the ring" Colonel Roosevelt tonight freely admitted that one of his most prominent supporters was George W. Perkins, formerly of Morgan and Company.
The admission proved a sensational sidelight to the Colonel's prepared speech. He had declared that he did not desire to indulge in personalities but that it had been necessary to answer publicly some of the charges made by his political opponents. He then read the list of men he said were supporting President Taft, headed by Senator Lorimer, of Illinois, which he made a feature of his set speech. He was interrupted by a man who yelled out:

"Well isn't Perkins supporting you?"

Roosevelt took the bait with evident relish. "He certainly is," he shouted with the noted smile much in evidence, "and you won't embarrass me by asking that. Furthermore it is a man for me I will not only admit but will not repudiate it later."

Three quarters of an hour before the meeting began the arena was jammed with 10,000 people while more than that number were turned away. At Mechanic hall, where the overflow meeting was held, there were 6,000 present and many were refused admission. The platform at the arena was roped in resembling a prize ring and when the Colonel entered some one caused a great laugh by "Shying a hat into the ring."

Much of the Roosevelt speech was a repetition of that made last night at Worcester, Mass. He said that he did not care to deal in personalities but had to be "frank with the people."

"Last night I felt obliged to answer attacks made upon me by Mr.
Taft, but I have no desire that this campaign shall be one of personalities so tonight I will only allude to him to show where he and I differ.
I hold the present contest to be more than a mere factional fight in the Republican party. When President Taft wanted to say that he did not want the Lorimer support he came to Massachusetts to say it but when I want to declare that I did not desire any Lorimer backing I went directly to Illinois to say so. I have made no assault on Mr. Taft. I think he means well but is feeble. However he is supported by men who are neither well meaning nor feeble and who have designed on the prosperity of the country."

Here the Colonel shifted to the well known issues he has advocated in all of his recent speeches and made no further allusions to the President.

THE FOUNDER

OF ANOTHER NEW RELIGIOUS CULT IS UNDER ARREST.

Chicago, April 27.—Rev. Frank De Groth, organizer and founder of a new religious cult, was arrested today and will be held while the police investigate charges which they say are more sensational than those brought out in the case of Evelyn Arthur See, and more revolting than any of the many cult cases that have caused police activity.

DeGroth is accused by Arthur Soderquist, who told the police that he entered the "Temple" of De-Groth's followers, but left it as soon as he learned of the teachings of the cult. A woman who the police learned had lived in the De-Groth flat said that her husband had joined the cult but had quit
it in disgust.

DeGroth, witnesses told the police, claimed to be in direct communication with God. He would permit only men to join his cult, and it was said, he intended to establish "Temples" in several cities.

MISS ALICE E. IVES.

New York.—A committee of members of the Gotham Club, with Miss Alice E. Ives, who wrote the "Village Postmaster," as chairman, have perfected plans to encourage struggling young playwrights whose plays have been rejected by theoretical managers. The committee's plan is to read the manuscripts from known and unknown authors, and if the play meets with the committee's approval, it will be recommended to the managers.

BOATS BOUND FOR MEXICO

ENGLAND WILL SEE THAT HER SUBJECTS ARE NOT MALTREATED.

By United Press.
Mexico City, April 27.—Despite the assurances of the British Minister F. L. Strong, that the British gunboat Algerine, now enroute to Mazatlan, and the Melpome, now in the Gulf, are headed for Mexican waters with no hostile intent, there is considerable apprehension in government circles. The report that British subjects have been mal-treated on the west coast was followed so closely by the report that the Algerine was enroute to Mazatlan that officials here believe that her commander is enroute to investigate.

It was considered here tonight that if British interests were imperiled Great Britain would immediately demand either that the United States afford needed protection to British subjects or withdraw its interpretation of the Monroe Doctrine so that England can act for herself. Either plan it is admitted would spell serious trouble for the Madero administration.

DYNAMITE

FOUND IN PACKAGE SENT TO MULTI-MILLIONAIRE.

POLICE ARE NOW GUARDING
THE PALATIAL HOME OF A. R. PEACOCK.

By United Press.
Pittsburg, April 27.—Police and detectives tonight guarded the palatial home of A. R. Peacock, millionaire and former partner of Andrew Carnegie, on North Highland Avenue, following the receipt of several threatening letters and a package containing a bomb and a stick of dynamite.

The police have arrested William Pastorius, whom they charge with having sent the "Black Hand" letters and the package of explosives.
The multi-millionaire is said to have received the first letter demanding $6,000 to be secreted under a bridge under penalty of death on April 17. Detectives were at once notified. Thursday another letter of a similar sinister import came by messenger and a package containing the bomb and dynamite was delivered by the mail.

The boy when apprehended by the police said Pastorius had given him half a dollar to deliver the letter.

The German, who is said at one time gave music lessons to Henry Frick's daughters was arrested today by detectives who watched the place where the money was to be concealed.

BODIES

Recovered From the Graveyard of the

ARE NOW ENROUTE TO HAL-FAX ON BOARD THE
MACKAY-BENNETT.

THE IDENTIFIED CORPSES WILL BE LANDED FIRST.

OTHERS WILL BE EMBALMED BEFORE SEARCHERS WILL BE ADMITTED TO MORGUE.

By United Press.
Halifax, N. S., April 27.—Definite word was received from the steamer Mackay-Bennett this afternoon that she had left the scene of the Titanic disaster at noon on Friday for Halifax with her grim cargo and will reach here Monday, the exact time being dependent on weather conditions.

Through the White Star officials and the mourners' committee, arrangements have about been completed for the landing of the bodies of the Titanic victims. The bodies of the identified dead will first be brought ashore and conveyed to the rooms of local undertakers, there to be prepared for sending to the homes of their relatives. The unidentified dead will be next looked after and will be taken to the Mayflower Curling rink where a force of 30 embalmers will be in attendance in order that there may be no delay with the work. After the bodies have been properly prepared persons looking for friends or relatives will be admitted in order that they might seek for loved ones lost in the disaster.

As the Mackay-Bennett only carried with her 150 coffins, some bodies have not yet been placed in any receptacle. They will be put first into a large marker that is to be placed within the dockyard grounds, where the death ship will dock, and then coffined and sent to the morgue. The White Star officials have not received from their position not to admit newspapermen and the representatives of the press to the docks.

In order that as many bodies as possible may be prepared for funeral before the Mackay-Bennett reached Halifax it was suggested tonight that about twenty embalmers be sent out on a special boat to meet the death ship. The matter was taken up with White Star officials who viewed it with favor and sent a wireless to Captain Larnauer asking how many additional men he could accommodate. There are now here a staff of 34 embalmers and 25 assistants who could be sent out to meet the Mackay-Bennett.

If Captain Larnauer can accommodate these men they will leave Halifax in the morning on the steamer Seal. The two ships would meet about fourteen hours from Halifax which would give them ample time to prepare every body for burial. This would eliminate any delay after reaching port. It would mean that upon the arrival of the Mackay-Bennett the bodies already identified would be ready for forwarding to the homes of their relatives.

A wireless received from the Mackay-Bennett stated that she was 200 miles east of Sable Island at six o'clock which will bring her into Halifax on six o'clock Monday morning. Major Winslip of Washington is expected here tomorrow morning as the representative of President for the purpose of identifying the body of Major Archibald Butt.

A CAMPAIGN

OF THE RAPID FIRE KIND IS PLANNED FOR CALIFORNIA.

By United Press.
Los Angeles, Calif., April 27.— Supporters of Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, today announced plans for a rapid fire campaign designed to offset the work of Governor Johnson who will follow Senator LaFollette on his swing through southern and central California.
William Smythe, candidate for delegate at large on the LaFollette ticket, will follow the governor, speaking from the very platforms from which the governor will argue for Colonel Roosevelt.

It is hinted that Francis J. Heney then will go over the same ground for Roosevelt. If this is done, Gilbert Roe, of Wisconsin, former law partner of LaFollette, will trail Heney, winding up the trip the day before the California primaries, May 14.

ANGRY

NEGRO COOK CAUSES A STRIKE ON BIG OCEAN LINER.

FIREMEN QUIT WHEN THREATS OF MURDER ARE OPENLY MADE.

By United Press.
New York, April 27.—The Liner Commanche of the Clyde Line was held here for several hours this afternoon because of a strike on the part of the firemen who claimed the negro cook aboard doled out "Bum grub" and furthermore, that he was "quite a dangerous individual."

On her voyage to New York the firemen complained about the food, the cook heard about it and, according to the firemen, appeared in the dining room brandishing a carving knife and threatening to "cut out the heart of any white man who says I ain't no good cook." The sight of the knife silenced complaint until the firemen got ashore. Then they made formal complaint to the Clyde line people who promised to discharge the cook.

However when the ship was weighing anchor this afternoon the firemen discovered the same cook aboard. They bundled their togs and left. The ship sailed for Jacksonville with substitute firemen.

ATTENTION

OF HOUSE AGAIN CALLED TO JAP ENCROACHMENTS.

By United Press.
Washington, April 27.—The attention of the house was again called today to alleged encroachments of Japanese interests in Mexican territory in the vicinity of Magdalena Bay. Representative Baker, of California, introduced a resolution calling on the president "to transmit to the house all information in the possession of the government relative to the purchases of land at Magdalena Bay by Japanese, and the granting of lumber concessions and fishing rights in the vicinity of Salina Cruz to a Japanese company."

The Lodge resolution has never been answered by President Taft.
It calls for substantially the same information as that sought by the California resolution.

MYSTERY

OF A BRUTAL MURDER COM-MITTED IN OREGON
IN JUNE

MAY BE CLEARED AND GUILTY
MEN PUNISHED AS RE-SULT OF TESTIMONY.

By United Press.

Corvallis, Oregon, April 27.— Testimony, which if unshaken by cross-examination may send both men to the gallows, was given today by A. H. Harris, a Portland newspaper man in the trial of George and Charles Humphreys, brothers, charged with the brutal murder of Mrs. Eliza Griffith at her home near Philomath last June.

Harris swore that George Humphreys had confessed to him that he and his brother Charles, were guilty of the murder. The witness gave in detail the story of the crime as he said George Humphreys had told it to him. He said George declared he and his brother Charles had gone to the murdered woman's lonely home at night and stealing up behind her as she was combing her hair had strangled her with a rope. Then they mistreated the woman, Harris swore. Humphreys told him and ransacked the house, obtaining $11.

The two brothers, Harris testified, then took the murdered woman's body between them and carried a third of a mile to a mill pond in which they threw it.

Detective Mitchell also swore that George Humphreys confessed to him that he and his brother murdered Mrs. Griffith. Confessions of Charles Humphreys in which he said he and his brother had murdered, not only Mrs. Griffith, but three others, William King, his step-father, George Selly and George Damrosch, also have been made to Harris, he alleged.

KILLED BY AUTO.

By United Press.
Pittsburg, Pa., April 27.—When Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Stripes, of Los Angeles, Calif., who are visiting relatives here, took a ride in an automobile today, trying it out with a view of buying it, the machine struck Charles Turner, inflicting injuries from which he died a few hours later at the homeopathic hospital.

TRIBUTE

Is Paid to Taft to Memory of Gen.
Grant.

PRESIDENT ELIMINATES POLI-TICS FROM SPEECH IN OLD QUAKERTOWN.

WILL RESUME THE STUMP
IN MASSACHUSETTS MONDAY

MADE NO REFERENCE TO COL.
ROOSEVELT'S ATTACK IN LAST NIGHT'S SPEECH.

By United Press.
Philadelphia, Pa., April 27.—
Politics was tabooed by President Taft tonight. Questions of his re-nomination and conflict with Col.
Roosevelt which has reached the acute personalities stage, were relegated to the rear and it was Taft the "Student of History" that addressed the Union League Club here. His topic was "General U. S.
Grant, Greatest of Northern Generals," and he paid high tribute to the "Savior of the Union."

The president enjoyed one of his easiest days of the year today and it was plain that he was resting as much as possible for Monday's ordeal when he will take the stump and again reply in person to Col. Roosevelt on the battle grounds of Massachusetts, where next Tuesday's primaries will be contested, have a momentous effect on the outcome of the struggle for the Republican presidential nomination.

It has been expected that President Taft would either this afternoon or tonight reply to the Roosevelt personal attack at Springfield where his rival for the nomination openly charged him with hypocrasy and with having "bitten the hand that fed him." But in his brief stay at Trenton, the president only shook hands with a delegation of New Jersey republicans and here tonight he stuck to his assigned topic and left politics outside.

A special train picked up the president at Elizabeth, N. J., and took him to Trenton where he held a public reception and shook hands with 5,000 people.

Troop A, Philadelphia City Car-rally, the society organization, met him at the station here and escorted him to the Union League Club where from an upper balcony he reviewed three regiments of Pennsylvania Infantry.

JUSTICE HUGHES

DECLARES IN NEW YORK SPEECH THAT HE IS OUT OF POLITICS.

New York, April 27.—"I am out of politics," was the only answer that Charles F. Hughes, associate justice of the Supreme Court would make in answer to questions as to whether he would accept the nomination for the Presidency as a compromise candidate.

Hughes considered by many as the logical candidate in case there is a deadlock on Taft and Roosevelt was here tonight in attendance at the banquet in honor of the newly appointed Justice Pitney, Hughes made a speech which contained no reference to politics.

SCENES

Of Gayety on Board
the Fated Steamer

WERE SUDDENLY SHIFTED TO A GIGANTIC TRAGEDY OF THE ICE-MANTLED SEA.

THE UNPOLISHED STORIES OF THE SURVIVING SAILORS

SHOW HOW LAUGHTER AND SONG WERE SUDDENLY HUSH-ED FOR SAD REQUIEM.

By United Press.
Washington, April 27.—Having wrestled but a meagre part of the Titanic's dread secrets from the ocean's depths in eight days of constant inquiry, the senate investigating committee adjourned tonight until Monday.

Ten days or two weeks additional sessions, senator Smith said tonight, may not finish the inquiry.
Even after that an occasional witness may have to be called before the official report is prepared.

Today's hearing was replete with dramatic and important testimony, closing with the simple different stories of the seamen—stories that gained in their dramatic intensity because of the very crudity and directness of their telling. They told of music, gay dinner parties, happiness and laughter on that peaceful Sabbath night aboard the Titanic.
Then they shifted, with hushed voices, to the tale of death and suffering in the frozen midnight sea.

Little incidents of the last moments alive of Archibald Butt, leader Strans, Captain Smith, John Jacob Astor and other notables in the Titanic's death list blazed their tale deep into the hearts of their hearers. The sailors' stories followed the wireless records of the Titanic's death from Captain James H. Moore, of the steamer Mount Temple. The last words of the Titanic, flashed through space to many ships, were logged in detail from the wireless "log." Captain Moore also told how only 49 miles away, he approached to within 14 miles only to find himself barricaded behind mountains of ice.

Witnesses Are Held.
Tonight Senator Smith refused to release the 35 officers and crew of the Titanic held as witnesses. He ordered them to remain here at least until Monday or Tuesday. They were bitterly disappointed, all having testified. Seven of the seamen concluded the session this afternoon.
Vice President Franklin, of the White Star Line, left for New York
this afternoon, but will return Monday. J. Bruce Ismay will remain.
Next week some of the Titanic's passengers will be heard for the first time. Some have been waiting here for days.

Tonight Senator Smith was telegraphed that Harold Bride, the second wireless operator of the Titanic, will be here to testify Monday. He gave a brief recital to the committee in New York a week ago. He is being brought from a hospital cot in New York with a broken ankle and his other foot frozen, mementoes of his narrow escape. Chief Engineer Sammis, of the Marconi offices in New York, and William Marconi, the wireless wizard, will accompany Bride. Manager Bottomley of the Marconi company, who was asked to come here Monday, begged off until later.

From Sammis, Senator Smith proposes to get details of the alleged money exacted for the story of the Titanic tragedy from operators Bride and Cottam, the latter of the rescue ship Carpathia.

Millionaires' Dinner Party.
Next week's inquiry also promises the truth of the allegation that Captain Smith attended a "Millionaires' Dinner Party"—just before the Titanic rammed its ocean victor.

Senator Smith stated tonight he had practically abandoned the thought of bringing Mrs. John Jacob Astor here to testify. Vast results have already been accomplished with the tragic story yet incompletely revealed, Smith declared. Many new laws, governing wireless operators, navigation and lifesaving devices are certain to follow the inquiry. The committee has developed that the Titanic rushed at a 33-knot gait through a vast field of ice, apparently heedless of warnings. Other testimony indicates many vessels were in a few miles of the sinking liner but their wireless operators were asleep.
Her rockets were seen but ignored.
Vice President Franklin has admitted he heard the rumor of the disaster over 16 hours, and received positive confirmation from the steamer Olympic over six hours before he felt the news sufficiently "authen-

PRICES

OF FRESH MEAT ARE SOARING SKYWARD IN CHICAGO.

SCARCITY OF LIVE STOCK GIV-EN BY PACKERS AS CAUSE OF ADVANCES.

By United Press.
Chicago, April 27.—Meat prices in Chicago already higher than they have been for nearly a year, give promise of going still higher and it was predicted tonight that when the housekeeper visits the butcher Monday she will be face to face with an increase of two to three cents a pound over the price she paid today. As Chicago controls meat prices all over the United States, similar advances are expected at other points. Beef, "on the hoof" jumped to $9 which means, it was predicted, a charge of 25 cents a pound by the butcher.
Sheep and lambs followed the upward trend of the meat in the stock yards and a corresponding increase in meats is forecasted. Local packers say the high prices for cattle is warranted by the scarcity of cattle.

They also say that the increase has no connection with the failure of the Federal prosecution of the packers. It was predicted today that chuck steaks and round steaks now selling in Chicago for 22 cents will advance next week to 25 and 26 cents. Higher grades will advance in proportion.

THE UNWRITTEN LAW.

By United Press.
Oakland, Calif., April 27.—Reliance on the "unwritten law" today probably saved from the gallows Harry Prescott on trial here for the killing of Ralph Thompson, whom he surprised and shot to death in the bedroom of Mrs. Kate Prescott, his wife.

"The man who invades another's home to steal his wife invites death," said Prescott's lawyer addressing the jury. That the plea had the effect was seen when the jury stood ten for acquittal and two for the death penalty. The jury reported a disagreement and was discharged.

TOOK ELEVEN
LONG INNINGSBUT CIGARMARKERS ARE FINAL-LY DEFEATED BY DIGGERS
FROM MARION.BAKER RELIEVES CALLIS
AND APPLIES BRAKES.LONG AND GOOSTREE BOTH STING RALL FOR CIRCUIT CHASERS.

(By Pete.)

Grappling for eleven long ghastly innings these rapidly arriving Wrigleys of ours, finally succumbed to the relentless grip of Bill Johnston's Diggers and dropped the second game of the season to the Marionites, 6 to 4.

When "Chic" Long, the plucky little third sacker, paraded to the plate in the last half of the eleventh the bases were clogged. The hopes of five hundred fans rose. Hobbs had already singled to right, Francisco and Friend had been furnished with free transportation. It was Chic who had proved the hero in the sixth with a home run punch to left center. Fans pulled like fury for the little third sacker to repeat. Selbach was rattled. After Chic had fouled one off, he lobbed up three wild ones. He grooved the next. Then with 500 frenzied fans whooping things up in general, Long scored a high one to Goostree and the game was terminated. The five hundred fans went home with sour faces and Manager William Johnston cut an additional notch in his victory stick.

The game was a high-tensioned one. Up to the fourth it looked like a repetition of Thursday's late unpleasantly. "Baldy" Callis, the collegian, started the game. Baldy's control was about as certain as a March day in the weatherman's office. In the first inning he officiated on the rubber, four Diggers were accorded with free transportation. Three runs crossed the platter. He allowed one single and threw one a mile over second on an intended sacrifice. The collegian started the second by passing Weller. Wrigley stopped the proceedings and sent the bulky lad to the stable. Baker who was being groomed in tight field for such an emergency, was beckoned for. "Cy" stomped the tide.

After that except on two occa-

HARRY WOLVERTON.

The unhappy manager of the New York Yankees, whose miserable showing in the first games of the 1912 championship season has caused them to lose thousands of their former supporters.

sions, the Cleveland lad was master of the situation. The first of these came in the fourth. Cy was firing 'em over the plate with a 200-pound steam pressure. Goostree shut his eyes at a fast one and swung around with terrific force. The sphere sailed to deep-center and the fleet-footed little shortstop had legged it around the sacks by the time the ball was retrieved.

Baker then put on steam. From the fourth until the last half of the eleventh, he was invincible. True, he waded into deep water a couple of times, but he managed to extricate himself in fetching manner. The lack changed in the eleventh. Pitcher Selbach, who ordinarily doesn't know a base ball mit from a sacrificial, met one squarely and pumped it through Long's precinct. Baker pegged down and rattled the next two in order. Then with a finger on second, the dangerous Mr. Crouch biffed a safe one over short, scoring Selbach. Crouch took second on the throw in. Sneaking to third, he scored a minute later on his side kick—Beswick's single to right. This was enough. Wrigley's men made a heroic effort in the last, but to no avail.

Those Diggers got to Callis right off. The collegian started bad by passing Myers. He couldn't locate the plate and the little second baseman drew a quartet of wild ones. Johnstone sacrificed, but Baldy could not gauge the distance between the hill and second and hurled the sphere to center field in an attempt to cut Myers off at the keystone sack. Manager Bill thieved second, Nick threw to catch the Marion boss and Myers started home. Wes Hornung fielded the ball and returned it to Francisco with an accuracy that nailed the second sacker standing up. Bill then got gay on third and drew a wild throw from Francisco which scored the Marionite. Crouch walked as did Beswick. Jackley advanced the runners with an out, but Gusle Eppler came to the fore and sent a screaming center scoring the two outfielders.

Wrigley's crew strove in vain for six chilly innings. At the close of the sixth, though, they came from behind. With Francisco laid aside via the breezing route, Selbach passed Friend. Then up strode the Chicken Long, whose hitting this season has been most terrific. The Diggerville hurler sailed to deep left center and Long tore around the sacks like a mad man. He registered before the sphere had been returned to Jackley and the 500 bugs went wild.

The Stogies selected the eighth as the time for their next assault. Again it remained for "Frenchy" Friend to touch off the fireworks. Friend gained first by virtue of Goostree's wild throw. Selbach uncorked a wild pitch, and the right fielder took second. Reminded of the late damage Long had done to his delivery, the Diggerville finger passed him. Hornung fanned. Baker hit one to Weller, but Manager Johnston allowed the third baseman's assist to filter through him and Cy was safe. Johnston became irritated with himself and couldn't locate the sphere which had sailed out into right field. When the ball was finally relayed back to the infield, both Friend and Long had registered. This ended the scoring for the locals.

Both pitchers worked nicely aside from the run-getting spasms. In Baker, Manager Wrigley has a find. The Cleveland lad took up the running at an inopportune time and he checked the onrush of the Diggerville outfit. He was cool at all times and the nerve-racking test which he was subjected to was withstood with remarkable stamina.

Manager Wrigley, of course, was disappointed with the defeat. At the showing of his players, however, he was elated. Smoky Hobbs continues to be the hitting kid of the squad. Lee only registered up four safe ones yesterday.

A glance at the box score will demonstrate just how the game was lost.

Back Into the Fold

Jack Lester, the once famous Chicago Cub pitcher who gained fame as the "Giant Killer" because of his remarkable effectiveness when twirling against the New York National League team, is to be given another trial with his old team. Flester was one of the best slabmen on the Louisville, American Association team last season, and his work in the minor league has caused Frank Chance to bring one of his old mainstays back into the fold.

to disclose it to the relatives of the Titanic's passengers, and the public.

Tales of Heroism

Amid the pre-eminent facts, the committee has been told tales of heroism unsurpassed in marine annals.

Arthur Cunningham, a steward, told late today how life boat number 4 was so crowded the oars could not be used. Of the eight men in that boat he said five were rescued from the water, bailed into the boat half frozen and almost drowned. He said no fire or boat drills had been held and charged that the Titanic's whistle was not blown to warn passengers after the collision. Cunningham said he put a life belt on W. T. Stead, the celebrated London journalist, but never saw him afterward.

Francisco Ray, another steward, told of seeing Major Butt, Clarence Moore and Frank Millet, of Washington, at dinner before the wreck. He was their waiter.

"Mr. Moore and Mr. Millet dined together, with Mr. and Mrs. Clark," said Ray. "Major Butt dined in the restaurant. I heard he was with the Wideners."

"Did you hear from any one that Mr. and Mrs. Widener gave a dinner that night to Mr. and Mrs. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Thayer and Harry Widener?" asked Senator Smith.

"No sir," Ray replied. "But I have heard something since—only gossip." Ray said he last saw Major Butt coming from the smoking room with Clarence Moore. He also told of catching a child thrown into his life boat.

Could Not Use a Knife

"We couldn't loosen the boat from the tackle and had to use a knife," said Ray. "There was no one to charge so we elected a fireman skipper. I didn't want to row away from the Titanic and refused to row for a while, but afterward gave in. The last hours of Benjamin Guggenheim, multi-millionaire, were then described by another steward, Henry S. Etches.

"Mr. Guggenheim and his secretary were in cabin 84," said Etches. "I gave them life belts. Mr. Guggenheim asked me if there was any hurry and I told him there was plenty of time to put some clothes on. That was the last time I saw either of them."

"About seven minutes after the smash," continued Etches, "I heard somebody in a loud voice outside my door yell, 'Close the water-tight doors.' The passengers would not believe an iceberg had been hit until an experienced man forward, picked up a chunk of ice, which he brought back, exclaiming: 'Will you believe it now?'"

Etches also told the part manager Andrews of the firm of Harlan and Wolf, builders of the Titanic, played in the disaster.

"I met Mr. Andrews last about 12:30," Etches testified. "He asked if I had awakened all of my passengers. He told me to be sure and tell them all to leave their doors open and put on their life belts, which they would find on top of their wardrobes. He didn't ask me to put a life belt on him. I did not see him have a belt in his hands at any time. Then we spoke to the purser, who was also trying to put life belts on the passengers. That was the last I saw of Mr. Andrews."

As to Ismay's Conduct.

J. Bruce Ismay's conduct was described by Etches as follows:

Mr. Ismay was assisting with the falls. He was asking the gentlemen to make a line and stand back as it was "ladies first." There was no difficulty at all about getting in the boats—I could have stepped in. Mr. Ismay cried out, "Ladies this way—"

"Are there any more ladies?"

"Then the boat was lowered away."

Etches said he saw one child in boat 7, a small baby boy with a woolen cap over his head.

"Then I went to boat 5 and stood by the forward falls and assisted there as I had at boat No. 7. After landing, Mr. Ismay called out with a loud voice three times, 'Are there any more ladies?'"

Mr. Murdoch asked the same.

"Just then we saw another woman standing apart and Mr. Ismay called to her."

"I am only a stewardess, sir," she replied.

"Never mind—you are a woman," Mr. Ismay told her, "take your place, jump in."

Then—The Awful Plunge

"The boat was lowered to the water. We then pulled out from the Titanic and I saw its stern rise in the air a thick mass of people on the deck. The boat seemed to rise as though she had scooped up the water and stood still with its bow down for about 30 seconds. She then plunged, head down, with an awful roar as though she was sliding off a rocky beach. Mr. Pittmann in charge of our boat ordered that we go back to the place where the Titanic disappeared. The ladies protested, asking, 'Why should we lose our lives?'"

After the Titanic had gone down and the crisis was over, I saw a light. Some said it was a star; others said it was a ship. It had every appearance of a masthead light. We rowed for it but it seemed as we approached to recede."

Arthur J. Bright, a quartermaster on the Titanic, also told of seeing dim masthead lights of some vessel. He fired off distress signals, but received no answers.

Alfred Crawford, a steward, retold much of his story given once before the committee's hearings in New York. In addition, he pictured in dramatic phrases the death of Mr. and Mrs. Isador Straus. Ship officers refused to let the husband enter a life boat, he said.

"Mrs. Straus got out then," the steward related. "We have been together all these years," Mrs. Straus cried, throwing herself into her husband's arms, "and where you go I will go."

"I never saw them again," concluded Crawford.

Crawford said that a woman whom he afterwards learned was the countess of Rothes, took the title to the life boat he was in, and steered the craft until they were picked up by the Carpathia.

The witness said that Captain Smith told them to row for lights which he pointed out to them. There were two of these, he related, and they appeared to be the fore and aft lights of a steamer, probably ten miles distant. Toward dawn they disappeared.

William Burke, a first class steward, told of finding two stewards—men—in the boat after it had put off from the sinking Ti-tautic. One of these was a Jap and the other an Italian. He put both to work at the oars. Burke was in charge of this lifeboat, and declared to the committee that he wanted to return to a place near those drowning, but his passengers refused permission. The witness declared that he saw no woman left on the deck when his boat was lowered away.

OBITUARY

William E. Linn was born in Leipsic, O., January 1st 1891 and departed this life, April the 21st, 1912 at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Snure, who have been residents of Lima for the past 10 years.

His honest upright, industrious disposition won for him many responsible positions as shown below. While yet in school he carried both The News and Gazette, from there to the Western Union Telegraph messenger. For the past six years with the C. H. & D. first as call boy, from there to yard clerk, then to assistant yard master until a short time ago he accepted a position with the D. T. & L.

Thus a noble life has been cut down.

Those from out of town who attended the funeral of William E. Linn, which was held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock from the Epworth M. E. Church, were: Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stevens, Mr. Emory Stambaugh, Mr. Earl Stambaugh of Ottawa, Mr. and Mrs. Minor B. Linn of Cleveland, Mr. Frank Linn of Huntington, Ind., Mrs. Frank Krysant, of Springfield, O., Mrs. Wilson, Prentiss, of Leipsic and Mr. W. L. Stevens, of Akron, O. Mr. Clarence Crow, of Napoleon.

He leaves a father and mother, one sister and two half-brothers.

REBELS

And Federals Continue to Stick to Positions

ALTHOUGH BOTH TOWNS IN FIGHTING ZONE ARE REPORTED IN RUINS.

U. S. ARMY TRANSPORT IS ORDERED FROM FRISCO.

SAILS WITH INSTRUCTIONS TO PICK UP AMERICANS ON WEST COAST.

By United Press.

El Paso, Tex., April 27.—Cullacan, Mexico, although practically in ruins is still held by the rebels, and Tepic, almost as badly battered, is still held by the Federals. This is the information received tonight from Mazatlan.

The assault on Tepic was in progress for more than two days and few buildings in the city escaped destruction, the advisers say. Details of the number killed on each side are not given, but the dispatches confirm the report that General Pascual Orozco and Colonel Morales, rebel leaders, were both severely wounded and that the rebels were forced to retire from the outskirts of Tepic after having occupied that town a brief time.

Tonight the wires from Tepic are cut at Presido. It is known however, that at Cullacan, the rebels seized a car of flour belonging to an American. When they learned it was American property, all the flour except one sack was returned.

General Pascual Orozco, this afternoon, announced at Jimenez that he would take Torreon on May 5. The rebel movement to the south is now well under way, according to Jimenez despatches tonight.

The Federals have not moved north, except to send small squads to repair the railroad toward Jimenez. One hundred rebel recruits were sent from Juarez to the south today. All available forces in northern Chihuahua are being sent to Orozco as fast as possible.

A train load of ambulances and hospital supplies, accompanied by nurses and physicians reached Torreon today to be sent to the Federal army according to Mexican consul Lloerent of El Paso. 44,000 head of cattle from the Terrazas ranch in Chihuahua will be shipped to the American side beginning Sunday.

TO PICK UP AMERICANS.

By United Press.

San Francisco, Calif., April 27.—The preparation of the United States Army transport Buford, under orders from Washington to sail at the earliest possible moment for the west coast of Mexico, to take aboard American refugees, whose lives are in jeopardy in the disturbed district was rushed with feverish haste today.

It was stated by Colonel J. T. Knight, in charge of the depot quartermaster's department, that the Buford will be ready to sail not later than Monday at noon. She has been equipped with selected life boats and one hundred additional life preservers, so that the maximum number of passengers may be accommodated.

It will take the Buford about a week to reach the first port of call—Topolampo. From there the ship will go to the following ports in order named: Altatata, Mazatlan, San Blas, Manzanillo, possibly Acapulco and Salina Cruz.

Ford Is Destined As Game's Greatest Pitcher

By W. J. McBeth.

New York, April 27.—No pitcher of greater promise than Russell Ford ever bid for public favor. The star of Harry Wolverton's New York Americans is a law unto himself. A youth with the most brilliant part of his career still ahead of him, this tosser has already established a record of which the greatest might reasonably be proud.

Let us analyze his case quite briefly. Ford has been in the big run, but two seasons. In that time he has won 48 games and lost only 17. He came to the club at a time when it was hard up for pitching talent. In his first year out he set the most glowing record ever established by a green tosser, that of winning 26 games out of 35 pitched. His average in 1910 battered the 500 mark of winning percentage. A mark reached only by one other recruit, "Klar" Cole of the Cubs the same year, and surpassed by veteran tossers such as A. G. Spalding and "Wild Bill" Donovan but four times in history.

Ford is no flash in the pan. "King" Cole may or may not be. So may "Rube" Marquard, the champion southpaw of professional baseball. But the bottom for one fitting season of experience endeavor only to sink back into oblivion. Krause, the ponderous of the Athletics flashed out like a comet in baseball's ken in 1909. He has made little noise or trouble since. Cole went away back in 1911. Marquard must this year live up to his 1910 form to justify his claims to lasting fame. Ford had a great deal better season in 1910, his first start, than he did last season but only in so far as winning percentage is concerned. In 1910 he established one of the most flattering records of all time with a club that finished second in the strife for Ben Johnson's pennant. He was a sixth position aggregation—a very, very badly mismanaged fifth position aggregation—last season. Yet he came out of the fray with a record of victories in two-thirds of the game in which he worked. This, in spite of the fact that he had very little encouragement from his backers. More than half the games he lost last season were kicked away from him. More than half were lost by one run. He was no sennore. From the time he first reported to the Highlanders, Ford has had to work for every victory. The various managers realizing that he was the main dependence of the tossing corps have always handed him the toughest assignments. It is Ford who invariably catches the star contemporaries of the opposition. He has been forced to fight his way to the top over such brilliant rivals as Walter Johnson, Ed Walsh, George Mullin, Joe Wood, Vean Gregg and Chief Bender. But for an unfortunate accident last season his work, even with a sixth position array, might have proved quite as brilliant as that of his debut. He lost about half of his games while he was physically unfit for duty. Early in the season he "beamed" Corbett of the White Sox. For days it looked as if the Chicagoan would not recover. Ford, who is a highly sensitive young man, was completely unstrung from the accident. In two weeks he lost ten pounds. He was on the verge of collapse when the injured athlete finally recovered. Russell Ford is a pitcher bound to go down through history as one of the brightest stars of the game. His work in the two years of service has justified a claim to one of the highest niches of fame. He will go on to greater achievements in the future if he will luck befalls. For Russell is a pitcher blessed with an unusual amount of gray matter. He is no body's fool. He will last many a year.

He has not jumped to the top of his profession because of any unusual physical qualifications. In fact he is of but average size and strength. He weighs only 175 pounds

RUSSELL FORD IN ACTION.

Johnson-Flynn Match Fixture Says Naughton

By W. W. Naughton.

San Francisco, April 27.—So far as can be judged as this writing the Johnson-Flynn match for the champion ship of the world is a fixture. The financial arrangements whatever they may be, were agreed upon long ago. The only thing that clouded the atmosphere was the question of a battle ground, and now all uncertainty on this score seems to have been removed.

The passage of a law in New Mexico providing for the handling of pugilistic enterprises in that section opened a new field for the wandering knights of the padded mitt and when on the day the Tripp measure went through the House at Santa Fe, Jack Curley named Las Vegas the place of meeting for the championship.

Nothing succeeds like success, and now that Curley has succeeded paving the way for his championship venture, he will exemplify critics and sporting men generally to sit up and pay attention to the heavy weight game, but in the present instance it is not a question of what six years will make, but what two years will make. It may be that two years would have made as much inroad on the black-skinned world beater, Jack Johnson, the only possible way to induce the public to regard Flynn's chances with any degree of seriousness is to cause speculation to arise as to the effect that a couple of years' indulgence and luxury has upon Johnson and Johnson's uppers.

If there were good ground for thinking that Johnson can take up his work again and perform as dextrously as he did against Jeffries at Reno, this match that hangs in the balance would be a fit subject for investigation by some of the cities who make a specialty of preventing uncalculated for cruelties.

But there is the rub. In Flynn's case there is a reason for believing that he is improving as a fighter. The most eloquent evidence in favor of this assumption can be found in his defeat of Al Kaufman and Carl Morris. In both affairs the fireman performed in a workmanlike manner. At that, however, the gains he has made would avail him nothing if Johnson could be counted on to display his lifetime form.

Johnson has passed his thirty-fourth year and he has not been in the ring for two years. John L. Sullivan was thirty-four and had been out of harness for three years when he lost to Jim Corbett. There is always a disposition to attribute the defeat of a champion to physical regression and following up and it was so when Sullivan lost to Corbett. And the chances are that if Sullivan had been a few years younger and he had not enjoyed a three-year lay off, would have made things far more interesting for Polopadour Jim.

Jim Corbett was only a few months past his thirtieth year when he lost his laurels to Fitzsimmons. This was in March 1897 and three years elapsed since Corbett defeated Charlie Mitchell so signally at Jacksonville.

Well, it may have been that Fitzsimmons would have proved Corbett's master if they had met years sooner, but I have my doubts. In speed and cleverness Corbett did not show any particular falling away at Carson but in nerve force—in the ability to endure fatigue and remain proof against excitement, he was a mere mockery of the old lad who trounced Sullivan and Mitchell.

Fitzsimmons was thirty-seven when he went under to Jeffries at Coney Island, and had been out of the ring a couple of years.

It is a hard thing to figure in the case of a freaky individual like Fitzsimmons. There was something about the fellow that age would not wither and a glance at his record will suggest that so far as pugilistic pres-

in fighting trim. That is perhaps a trifle under in this age of giant tossers. Ford realizes as much as any body that his physical body is not equipped in a manner to proclaim him any "iron man" of the national pastime. The fact that he insists upon four full days rest between game proves that he possesses common sense enough to insure the conservation of his good right arm to the longest possible tenure of efficiency.

Russell Ford is commonly classed among the American league's greatest horde of "spitball" pitchers. Yet he does not throw the "spit ball." He will tell you so himself. He tosses something that very closely resembles the salivary slant in agitation and break, but something also as far removed from the difficult about as Matty's fadeaway differs from Ford's fast ones. What his freak delivery is, Ford alone knows. He is telling no one. It is a virtue lies in the fact of its mystery. Pitchers for two years have been trying to solve the nature of the delivery. Aside from the results he gets with it they have been able to learn absolutely nothing.

For Russell Ford is the only pitcher in baseball who can throw what is called a "spitball" yet with such perfect control and manipulation that he can make it break either right or left at will. The ordinary spitball is mighty freaky in its behavior. It is liable to break almost any way, but usually for a righthanded pitcher breaks away from a righthanded batter. Therefore a pitcher who can at will hoop the ball to either side is doubly effective in that he can make batting for a left-hander just as difficult for a right-hander.

No pitcher can get away in fast company with any one stock in trade. Aside from his "freak" Russell Ford has as much "stuff" as anyone in the business. He has one of the wickedest fast falls in the game, a speedy infoboss as it nears the batter. He also has a good "hook" or curve and a passingly effective low ball. He pitches everything with the same motion and he always masks his grip on the ball with his glove before starting his swing, the batter is absolutely in the dark as to what is coming up. Harry Davis, leader of the Naps, once said after Ford had struck him out four times in a row: "Hitting that fellow is simply luck. Close your eyes and swing blind and you have just as much chance as to try to outguess him." La Jolie, Cobb and Crawford have expressed similar views.

Ford used to be a spitball pitcher pure and simple. It was his wonderful side arm "spitter" that won a pennant for Atlanta in the Southern league in 1903. He depended chiefly on this asset in 1909 when he was with Jersey City in the Eastern league. But all the time he was practicing on his "freak" that he had discovered in this winter of 1908-09. Ford realized that a ball curved in a direction opposite to that of its rotation. A ball spinning from left to right breaks from right to left and vice versa. That gave him the idea.

He simply figured out how to shoot the sphere from his hand in order to command at will the rotation. In either direction necessary for a sharp break without sacrificing the speed of propulsion. Simple, isn't it? He'll show you how to do it if you care to believe him. Says he does it by slightly moistening the other thumb or the first two fingers while keeping the rest of the hand perfectly dry. He says the moisture acts in the manner of maulage; that the leather adheres to the damp surface of his hand while it readily breaks away from the dry part and that with the same delivery and wrist motion he is able to spin the ball either to right or to the left. That's the way he says. But no other pitcher, no matter how hard he practices can get the same result in the same manner. And it is a significant fact that Russell Ford, who has two brothers who figured in professional baseball has been unable to teach either the wonderful delivery that he has mastered.

You cannot blame him for keeping his secret. So long as he can cloud in mystery his wonderful style just so long will he be a demon among professional pitchers. It is his bread and butter. Russell Ford has too much sense to give away his own game.

Baseballists who are the least bit inclined toward superstition have a plausible excuse for that opening defeat. Irrefutable proof that Thursday's game was dropped to the Diggers through a jinx that pursued the team out to the park that afternoon, has been brought to light by several members of the squad. Said jinx appeared in the shape of a No. 13 tag which graced the rear of a persistent motorcycle whose owner rode along the side of the automobiles bearing the players to the park. Nick Francisco made the discovery very startlingly. He called the attention of his teammates to the cyclist and everyone got a squint at the dazzling "13" hanging from the rear. Somebody shied a lemon at the unpopular of the parade.

"That queers you," somebody yelled.

"On the contrary," retorted Francisco, "that is an indication of victory."

Nick is not superstitious but the sudden appearance of the "13" tag and the team's subsequent defeat caused the little backstop to do some tall thinking.

Weak, "Worn-Out" Men

NEED VITAL FORCE.
VITALITY is the greatest asset man can have. Without it, no man can expect to be strong, vigorous and healthy. Without it no man can hope to be successful in his work or business undertakings.

The weak, run-down man, is sadly handicapped in life for the reason that he is deficient in VITAL FORCE. He gets no pleasure out of life, but drags himself around from day to day until life has become a burden. Through early indiscretions, excesses and ignorance, healthy man has, "He wonders why he gets up in the morning feeling so tired, when he ought to feel refreshed; why he has that "all gone" feeling; why he is getting so nervous, etc.; why his memory, which was once so good, is failing him; why he is losing his ambition and interest in life.

BRILLIANT RECEPTION FOLLOWS CEREMONY

WHICH UNITED THE MACKENZIE AND FINLEY FAMILIES
LAST NIGHT.

NUPTIALS SOLEMNIZED IN PRESENCE OF BUT FEW
WHEN THE BRIDE AND GROOM ARE GREETED BY ONE HUNDRED FRIENDS

Featured by the marked simplicity of the sacred ceremony as solemnized by the Rev. Aug. Schwertner, two prominent Lima families were united in wedlock last evening at the parish house of St. John's Catholic Church, when Edith Finley, daughter of Mr. John Finley, became the bride of William Holmes Mackenzie, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mackenzie. Present at the sacred rites were the parents of the contracting couple, Miss Finley, sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and Mr. Ralph Mackenzie, attendant upon his brother, with only other immediate members of the family.

The young bride looked radiant, lovely in a gown of shadow lace and over white satin. A filmy veil of white tulle enveloped her form, and upon the crown of her hair was worn a spray of shadow lace, fastened with orange blossoms. The maid of honor was beautifully attired in white chiffon over white lace with crystal trimmings.

Immediately after the ceremony, the bride and relations repaired to the home of the bride's father, Mr. John Finley, at 200 south West street, where a wedding reception and supper was held. The reception room was elaborately decorated with American Beauty roses. About one hundred guests participated in the delightful social function, and congratulations and felicitations were veritably showered upon the happy young couple.

The decorations in the dining room were small baskets of spring flowers. On the bride's table were two large baskets of gladioli and sweet peas, and pink candles shed their light upon the joyous scene. The bride's cake contained the proverbial dime, thimble, and penny, and was cut by the bride who distributed its symbolic contents.

The bride's table was laid in the large south dining room while the guests were served at small tables throughout the living rooms. As the bride ascended the stairs, the great bouquet was caught by her cousin, Miss Margaret Golley, who became the immediate recipient of congratulations from her maiden friends. Throughout the evening Hunter's Orchestra, screened in the large hall by potted plants, rendered a delightful musical program. The bride is one of Lima's charming society girls, a graduate of Georgetown, Washington, D. C., and her popularity has been attested by the shower of compliments which has been hers during the past fortnight and by the numerous and costly presents which were her gift. She wore during the evening a beautiful lavalier, the gift of her groom.

Mr. Mackenzie is a sterling young man of affairs, who since graduation from Yale has become identified in general business life, holding a responsible position with the German-American Bank, and only recently being selected from a long list of applicants as the Secretary of the Lima Progressive Association.

Among the prominent people of the city and from out of town who graced the reception were noted Mr. Frank L. Maize and his bride of the coming week, Miss Pearl Grosjean; the Misses Maize and Edward J. Maize; Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Ritchie; Mrs. Wm. Wenner; the Misses Wenner, and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. S. Vicary; Chauncey F. Lufkin; Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Cunningham; Ham, of Bluffton; Mrs. E. J. Golley; Mr. and Mrs. T. A. McLaughlin; Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Cuthbert; Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Bates; Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Thompson; and Miss Clem, with his bride of July, Miss Baxter; Mrs. D. A. Baxter and Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Baxter, the Misses Mackenzie, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Moulton,

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Booth; Miss Mary Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. O'Leary, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Wendock, Revs. Manning and Schwertner, Mrs. D. J. O'Day, Mr. and Mrs. Frank R. Mitchell, of Indianapolis; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Mitchell, Mrs. G. Straw, Mrs. J. P. King, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. McLaughlin, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Galvin, Mr. Herbert Little, Mr. James McKenzie, Mr. Harry Holmes and Mrs. E. A. Swan, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Campbell, Mrs. C. M. Sprague, Miss Burton, Misses Wright, Mrs. Kate Kirk, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Porter, Mr. and Mrs. George Waldorf, Miss Bellman, of Toledo; Miss West, of Bellefontaine; Miss Helen Lundergan, of Du Bois, Pa.; Miss Mary Sheerin, of Indianapolis, Ind.; Miss Genevieve Robinson, of Mannington, W. Va.; Miss Florence Lufkin, of Rye, N. Y.; Miss Edna Lowe, of Kansas City, Mo.; Mrs. G. Paltrabagh, of South Bend, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Lawlor, of Columbus.

At half past nine o'clock, the newly wedded couple departed over the Pennsylvania for New York city, where they will spend a several weeks honeymoon.

Upon their return, they will make their home at 200 south West street for a short time, until their new home on Lakewood avenue is completed.

Redfern and Warner's Corsets

You can't find better fitting, better wearing or as comfortable corsets in any other make. You may pay twice as much but they will be no better and in some particulars not so good.

A Wearer of a Redfern Model is distinguished easily by her graceful bearing and marked figure style. She wears her clothes as if "to the manner born." They never seem just clothes, but a part of the wearer—the tout ensemble pleasing.

Redfern Models represent the best there is in corset creation—soft, beautiful, long-wearing material, made into designs that are stripped with the rarest selected bones that subtly control the form, that is shaped by the designs acknowledged by the renowned fashion creators to be exquisitely perfect—to fully meet their requirements.

Women Every- where Know that their figure is dependent entirely upon their corset and we know that Warner's designs are the dependable corsets.

Know it because each season our sales increase by the hundred pairs, due entirely to their splendid value.

We have directly traced the sale of dozens of pairs to the proper fitting of one pair.

Why?—because they shape fashionably—fit comfortably and outwear any other corset.

Warner's "Double-Skirts" are the greatest corset invention since rust-proof—they prevent the skirts of long models from tearing or stretching.

We stand back of a Warner's Corset. We guarantee them not only to shape fashionably, to fit comfortably, but not to rust, break or tear.

HARMAN'S

All Sorts

(By L. N. Prince.)
The opening of the fifth successive season of the Ohio State league Thursday afternoon under fair skies and favorable auspices was witnessed by close to 3,000 fans in the three cities where games were played. The attendance from all indications is a harbinger of the league's most successful season.

With only two games of the schedule gone by the boards, it would be a difficult matter at this stage to pick the winners. Every club has proved its mettle and from all appearances the struggle will lapse into a closely-fought campaign. The greatest surprise of Thursday's opener, however, was the form displayed by the rejuvenated Marion Diggers. With scarcely a week of practice, Bill Johnston's athletes invaded Lima and walloped the Stogies; 6 to 0. Johnston has rounded in a crew that will prove a pretty hard nut to crack. Assisted by the Columbus American Association club, which so graciously turned over Catcher Jackley and Shortstop Gastore, to the club, Manager Johnston has groomed an aggregation that must be feared.

Lima's showing was not a disappointment by any means. Casey Jones, the giant right hander who has always hung the Indian Sign on the locals, proved too much of an enigma for Wrigley's men to wente effectively. Consequently they went runless.

Francisco, the Columbus boy who has been assigned the regular backstop job, looks as if he will prove the find of the season in the receiving line. Chic Long, the agile little third sacker, has changed his style at the plate and will develop into a more consistent hitter than last season. Hornung, at short, Wrigley at second and Nesser, will clinch the infield's strength. There are five candidates yet fighting for outfield positions. Of these only Hobbs and Friend are sure of their retention. Fans are wondering what Manager Wrigley intends to do with Tom Plummer, the veteran outgardener, who last season was regarded as one of the stellar outfielders of the circuit. Plummer has been warming the bench for three days and from appearances it looks as if the veteran is to be turned loose. Merchant and Burke are fighting it out for the middle field assignment. Harry Daubert, the Capital City lad, is still plugging away with a hope of battering his way to an infield position. This lad had showed calibre to warrant his retention, but his polished work of Hornung and Long cannot possibly be improved, so Daubert's chances of an infield berth are going glimmering.

President Harry Wright declared today that Lima fans would have a winner at an expense. More than 2,500 fans saw the opening game here and Mr. Wright expects to appease their appetites for a team that will be in the up-there class at the least.

Manager Zeke Wrigley takes credit upon himself for the "making" of Hiram Grandie, the sensational Chillicothe twirler, who won twenty out of twenty-nine games last season. The incident which started the singular boxmen on the climb occurred at Hamilton. Grandie had been sulking for several days. Slight differences with team mates was largely responsible for this. He also had complained of a lame wing but the nifty twirler impressed Zeke as a player who was "laying down" at the club's expense. On the opening day of a series in Hamilton it fell to Grandie to do box work.

Complaining that he was not in shape, the hurler took to the hill. He pitched fair baseball for an inning or so. Then came an avalanche of basehits. Grandie refused to weather the gale. He raised the distress signal in the fourth inning. He looked appealingly to Wrigley, but the little manager forced him to continue.

At the end of the fifth, he came to the bench with a disgusted look. Tossing his glove to one corner, he informed Manager Wrigley that he was "through" for the day.

"No you're not," retorted Wrigley. "You go right back and finish this game. You've been loafing for almost two weeks and it's time you were getting that arm in shape."

Despite remonstrances and petitions from the pitcher, Wrigley forced him back into the fray. Grandie then proceeded to burlesque the game. He rolled the offerings up to the plate as large as water melons and he grooved them persistently. The Hams just knocked him galley-west and crooked. To disturb the monotony he would cut loose a wild one to the grand stand. Well, by the time the show had rolled around to the ninth chapter, a baser in the dictionary and he was than twenty-two runs had been chalked up against him.

The hurler walked to the bench with a half-way grin.

"That little burlesque will cost you just $50.00 and an indefinite suspension, Hi," said Wrigley quietly as the player came to the bench. "You don't mean it," exclaimed Grandie wildly.

"Just watch me," replied Zeke.

True to his word, Wrigley suspended the pitcher. Day after day the player sat on the bench in uniform. He warmed up with the others but Zeke never crooked a finger at him for box duty.

A week passed in this way. Grandie was visibly affected by the treatment.

The team moved over to Springfield for the next series. Wrigley's staff of hurlers was shot to pieces. Sore arms, sickness and suspensions had cut the team down to two dependable boxmen. Wrigley had worked both men. The opening day at Springfield proved to be an ideal one. Shortly before Wrigley announced his pitcher, Grandie walked up to him and said: "Gee, Zeke, I'd like to get in today; my arm's feeling fine."

"Go ahead, Hi," responded Zeke, hesitatingly.

Well, the pitcher went in and made monkeys out of those Reapers. Two days later he came to Wrigley with the same request and Zeke permitted him to again do box duty. The lad persisted in it. He won six straight games for the Babes at intervals of two days apart. The team returned to Chillicothe. Grandie having turned the majority of the winners on the trip.

Pay day rolled around on the day of their return. Zeke, to his promise, Zeke had "docked" the pitcher's salary $50.00. Grandie didn't register a kick. That night Wrigley pulled the hurler to one side: "Look here, Hi," he said. "I carried out my threat, but you've been so faithful since the occurrence, that I'm going to come across with that fine. Here's your fifty bones, but if one breath escapes you relative to my suspension of you, fine, out will come your fifty plunks at the next ghost walking."

Grandie took the lecture to heart. He didn't mention the suspension of the fine. To have done so would have meant a tax of discipline on the club roster. Grandie kept up his good work. His pitching was phenomenal. At the end of the season he had registered twenty winners on the right side of the ledger. Only nine were chalked up to him.

"I consider that little suspension, the making of Grandie," said Zeke the other day in a fanning bee. "Prior to that time he was only a mediocre player with a half-ambition to win his game. Following the removal of the ban placed upon him he worked his very best off for the club. Thereafter, when Grandie mounted to the hill, fans felt confident of a victory. I predict that Grandie will develop into one of the stars of the game."

Efforts are constantly being made by the Federation of American Motorcyclists to increase interest in touring and promote motorcycling. President C. H. Hamilton and J. Leo Sauer, chairman of the legislative committee of the F. A. M., are now negotiating with the Touring Bureau of the American Automobile Association endeavoring to obtain for the F. A. M. members' special rates for the elaborate route books and road maps of the A. A. A.

The maps of the automobilists are considered the best and newest published and are practically invaluable for tourists. They are being bettered and added to daily by the Touring Bureau of the automobile association.

The efforts of F. A. M. officials in trying to get this service for the many thousand federation riders is another indication of the aggressiveness of the F. A. M., which is striving to aid motorcyclists in every possible way. And now with the coming of summer when many riders will be making distance tours every effort is being made to obtain these authentic maps.

The Dayton, O., Motorcycle club recently conducted one of the most successful day and night motorcycle endurance runs sponsored in the Middle West. A course of 260 miles was covered and the endurance, skill and judgment of the competitors and the reliability of the machines were thoroughly tested. The route led north to Toledo, south to the state capital, Columbus, and west to the starting point. Controls, checking stations, were established along the way and stringent rules adopted. The run was arranged under the sanction of the Federation of American Motorcyclists.

THE CADILLAC

The Car You Will Eventually Buy

IS STILL SELLING. EIGHT WERE DELIVERED LAST WEEK

EQUIPPED WITH THE FAMOUS ELECTRIC STARTING AND LIGHTING SYSTEM.

There seems no let up in the popularity of the famous Cadillac automobile sales. During the past week the following cars were sold by The Cadillac Company of Lima and delivered by Mr. Plummer to the following: C. A. Burgess, Lima; Joseph Woolley, Lima; W. H. Bowlers, Glen Elder, Lima; Judge H. P. Mathers, Sidney; E. T. Custer, border, Sidney; Dr. A. H. Creps, Lima, and Dr. W. Beebe, of Sidney. There must be a reason for the Cadillac, selling and the answer can be found if you will only ask one of the owners of this car. The Cadillac has always been just 365 days ahead of the other automobiles and this year one of their strongest features is the electric lighting and starting system, that makes automobile driving not only safe but a pleasure. Mr. Plummer has just a few more Cadillacs to sell in his territory and in case you have decided to buy a car this year, you should not fail to call and see this car, the greatest automobile value of the world. The following explains one of the many uses that you can put the self starter to.

C. F. Kettering, who developed the Delco electrical cranking, lighting and ignition system on the Cadillac car, recently had an experience which demonstrated that the cranking device can sometimes be used for purposes other than that of simply starting the engine.

Mr. Kettering was driving from Dayton to Springfield and came to a stretch of road, about 100 yards in length, which was under water. He attempted to drive through but when he had gone about half way he found the water deeper than he had anticipated. It was so deep in fact that the car-

Experts pronounce Reynolds' Flexible Asphalt Shingles the practical roofing material of the day. They present a very fine appearance on a roof and "stand up" against frost, wind and rain years longer than the average "life" of best cedar shingles. First Cost is about that of cedar, but ultimate cost—figured after half a lifetime of sturdy resistance to wind and wear—is mighty little.

Reynolds Flexible Asphalt Slate Shingles

are mineral surfaced and closely resemble quarried slate. They are 8 x 12 inches and lay 4 inches to the weather. They never curl, split or warp. Being flexible, frost cannot crack them. They are fire and lightning proof—need no painting and cover color rain water. They have had a ten-year test and we back them with a ten-year guarantee. Write for free sample book, now—it's a money saver for builders. Beware of imitations. We also manufacture granite-surfaced roofing of high quality in rolls.

President Harry Wright declared today that Lima fans would have a winner at an expense. More than 2,500 fans saw the opening game here and Mr. Wright expects to appease their appetites for a team that will be in the up-there class at the least.

Manager Zeke Wrigley takes credit upon himself for the "making" of Hiram Grandie, the sensational Chillicothe twirler, who won twenty out of twenty-nine games last season. The incident which started the singular boxmen on the climb occurred at Hamilton. Grandie had been sulking for several days. Slight differences with team mates was largely responsible for this. He also had complained of a lame wing but the nifty twirler impressed Zeke as a player who was "laying down" at the club's expense. On the opening day of a series in Hamilton it fell to Grandie to do box work.

Complaining that he was not in shape, the hurler took to the hill. He pitched fair baseball for an inning or so. Then came an avalanche of basehits. Grandie refused to weather the gale. He raised the distress signal in the fourth inning. He looked appealingly to Wrigley, but the little manager forced him to continue.

At the end of the fifth, he came to the bench with a disgusted look. Tossing his glove to one corner, he informed Manager Wrigley that he was "through" for the day.

"No you're not," retorted Wrigley. "You go right back and finish this game. You've been loafing for almost two weeks and it's time you were getting that arm in shape."

Despite remonstrances and petitions from the pitcher, Wrigley forced him back into the fray. Grandie then proceeded to burlesque the game. He rolled the offerings up to the plate as large as water melons and he grooved them persistently. The Hams just knocked him galley-west and crooked. To disturb the monotony he would cut loose a wild one to the grand stand. Well, by the time the show had rolled around to the ninth chapter, a baser in the dictionary and he was than twenty-two runs had been chalked up against him.

"That little burlesque will cost you just $50.00 and an indefinite suspension, Hi," said Wrigley quietly as the player came to the bench. "You don't mean it," exclaimed Grandie wildly.

"Just watch me," replied Zeke.

True to his word, Wrigley suspended the pitcher. Day after day the player sat on the bench in uniform. He warmed up with the others but Zeke never crooked a finger at him for box duty.

A week passed in this way. Grandie was visibly affected by the treatment.

The team moved over to Springfield for the next series. Wrigley's staff of hurlers was shot to pieces. Sore arms, sickness and suspensions had cut the team down to two dependable boxmen. Wrigley had worked both men. The opening day at Springfield proved to be an ideal one. Shortly before Wrigley announced his pitcher, Grandie walked up to him and said: "Gee, Zeke, I'd like to get in today; my arm's feeling fine."

Fans around the circuit will doubtless be interested and pleased to learn that umpire "baiting" and rowdism will not be tolerated by President Read this season. In a letter issued to all managers and umpires, prior to season opening, Bobby informed them that ungentlemanly conduct must not be permitted for a moment. Rowdies were never popular with baseball fans and President Read's instructions will no doubt meet with the hearty approval of circuit fans.

The race in the big circuits is far from being settled. For instance, who ever heard of Cincinnati leading a pennant chase after a few days had rounded to their normal condition. But the showing of the Reds is surprising. Hank's Hopes have started off with a rush. With a confidence born of consistent victories over some of the best clubs in the league, those scarlet-hued baseballists from the land of bear have gone through the first two weeks of the season in a whirl. Chicago, New York and Pittsburgh, the possible pennant contenders, have failed to round into shape, thus far. In fact these three clubs are down in the dumps. Their return to form is a tedious one, but ultimately they will climb to the top of the heap.

Of last year's second divisioners, Boston, Philadelphia and Cincinnati are displaying a marked improvement. Despite the fact that they are handicapped by a long hospital list, those Phillies are playing wonderful ball. Manager Dooin, Hans Lobert and Runt Walsh are out of the game. If the athletes from the city of sleep can win ball games in that condition, what won't they do when the breeches are heated?

Johnny Kling's crew of Beans are coming strongly. Johnny has rejuvenated the squad in much the same manner as did Connie Mack, four years ago. Spratt, a young infielder, is showing remarkable form and is proving an able substitute for Al Bridwell, the stellar shortstop, who has been unable to get into the game this season on account of a bad case of blood poisoning. Kling's hurlers are also showing up well and the Boston brigade may upset a few galleries of dope on the race this season.

The next four weeks will witness situations in other circuits assuming their normal shape and it is quite likely that the old leaders will mount to the top of the ladder again. The race in both leagues is being followed by local fans and much interest is being manifested.

Just look who is with us again! Carl Morris, ex-white hope and formerly the Oklahoma terror, whirl wind, but more recently the frost, has returned to the roped arena and, what more, he celebrated his return by giving Mr. Morgan Williams, of Australia, a sound never to be forgotten thrashing at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, on last Wednesday.

But seriously now, Morris' return to the ring bears out a prediction made through these columns several weeks ago when newspapers throughout the country were bawling the big scraper for his retirement from the game because to Morris the "thus" story originated in the fertile brain of some scribe and is as far away from the truth as possible. Morris went into temporary retirement following his disastrous bout with Stewart in the East. He went into retirement with the determination to come back some day and make a showing in the big circuit. Unlike some fighters he refused to make excuses and "jit" for his defeat. He plugged away at training and now he is back again and willing to meet all comers. There's something in this boy. He'll come to the top again.

BLOOD POISON CURED 606

Salvarsan (606), the Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age

The adoption of Salvarsan (No. 606) by the U. S. Army and Navy, the leading hospitals of the world and its use by eminent specialists has set at rest the first adverse criticisms of the doubters, who first failed to believe all the wonderful things they claimed to do with PROF. PAUL EHRLICH'S new discovery.

"A TREATISE ON CONTAGIOUS VENEREAL BLOOD POISONING, ITS HISTORY AND CURE," is the title of a booklet published by me and should be in the hands of every adult.

Contagious Venereal Blood Poisoning, according to authorities has been acquired or inherited by from 18 to 20 per cent of the people of the civilized world, with eighteen to twenty people out of every hundred afflicted with this dread scourge in varying forms or severity, the rapid spread through innocent causes may be readily understood.

It may lay dormant in ones system for years then demonstrate its presence by Locomotor Ataxia, hemorrhage of the blood vessels in the brain, which causes paralysis and may result in death the first attack that comes on without warning, obstinate ulcers and glandular swellings, skin diseases, anemia and rapid decline.

Through the administration of this wonderful discovery the sufferer is protected against these dangers and cured of every trace of the disease.

The public authorities are doing all in their power, through the regulation of drinking cups, etc., but how about the members of ones own family where this disease is lurking?

My book tells about the remarkable and immediate cure of this disease no matter of how long standing and with no inconvenience to the patient with Salvarsan (No. 606).

It reprints numerous articles from leading magazines and medical journals relating to this wonderful revelation in medicine and tells about the great efforts of renowned scientists who finally accomplished the greatest feat of the century in perfecting a remedy that would do in a few days that the iodides and mercury could not accomplish in years.

This book is free to those who wish it, and I will be glad to give all information regarding treatment freely and cheerfully. I do not charge for consultation.

In the Realm of Books

Lima booklovers have long ago learned along with the rest of the country in common, that most anything of a literary nature that comes out of Indiana these days is worth while. For some reason Indiana refuses to give up her monopoly on the fiction field, and that she intends to hold that monopoly is demonstrated by the publication this week of a new novel by Meredith Nicholson, "A Hoosier Chronicle," from the press of Houghton Mifflin Co. and shows the existing combination of capital against the individual to the detriment of the said individual.

Mr. Nicholson has exceeded any of his former stories and has drawn characters the like of which live today in the Hoosier state. His ability to point out in an entertaining manner the ways that are devious, tricks that are not always vain, is only exceeded by an aptitude for covering the frailties of man by the virtues of good women.

"A Hoosier Chronicle" mingles love and politics in such a way as to be interesting and honest and strength of purpose in such a manner as to be instructive—a combination rarely found in the latter day work of fiction.

John Breckinridge Ellis has gone to the saw-dust ring and the land of tinsel and pink lights to choose a heroine for his new novel, "Fran," now giving promise of becoming one of the month's six best sellers.

In the selection of the bewitching little creature, half-child, whom he calls "Fran," and about whom he weaves a delightfully interesting story, Mr. Ellis has chosen happily. There are things in "Fran's" nature that would hardly be approved did one not know her real goodness of heart, but somehow everything "Fran" does in her little life of love and sorrow intermingled, teaches a lesson and one of every-day life.

While Fran is the story in the truest sense, the secondary characters are strong and interesting; the plot is permeated with humor and in many instances the dialogue is powerful and dramatic.

Tom Plummer, the veteran outfielder, and Baldy Callis, the young catcher, are no longer members of the Wrigley team. Zeke welded the two last night and the two players were divorced from the club payroll.

Callis' release came following his exhibition at the park yesterday afternoon. Manager Wrigley was convinced beyond a doubt that the collegian was never cut out for mound duty and as Callis couldn't possibly break in at any other point, his release was forthcoming. This year was Baldy's first season as a pitcher. Hitherto he has played in the outfield. Never a hard hitter, Wrigley conceived the idea of converting him into a finger. After three weeks of grooming, he made his debut yesterday afternoon. The collegian worked one inning. He was eluded for a single; walked four men and let out one wild heave. That was enough.

Manager Wrigley has come in for severe criticism with Plummer's release. The outfielder is practically in his prime and showed up well during the training season. Slight differences with the club, however, caused him to do bench duty, and Zeke concluded that the player was detrimental to the welfare of the team. Plummer was well-liked by the fans and was banked upon for a regular berth. He is a slugger of the old type and batted .269 with Piqua last season. Fans have explicit faith in Manager Wrigley, however, and are willing to abide by Zeke's decision.

Callis' home is in Columbus, while Plummer lives at Spencer, near here. Plummer has several offers with other club in the Ohio State.

Milwaukee, Wis., April 27.—That Hugh McIntosh, the Australian fight promoter, will bring to New York this summer a number of boxing stars from the antipodes, was the prediction tonight of Tom Andrews, McIntosh's representative in America. It is said offers have been made to induce McIntosh to take several of his boxers to London, Paris and New York.

Belmont, President of the Political Equality Association of New York, recently said: "The Counsel for the Defense" deals widely with many of the problems of the day—corrupt business methods, defenseless position of the man of no influence, the wilful ignoring of woman's ability, the struggle of woman to assert her equality even when it exists. It shows the existing combination of capital against the individual to the detriment of the said individual.

FOOT NOTES. "How to Judge a Book" by Edmund L. Shuman has been adopted by the Ohio Teachers' Reading Circle.

Less than two weeks after the publication of Miss Emma C. Dowd's story "Polly of the Hospital Staff" the sales had necessitated the printing of 25,000 copies—an unusual record for a first novel.

John Burroughs, the dean of American nature-writers, was 76 years old on April 3rd, being about a month younger than William Dean Howells, who occupies a similar position in the field of American letters. Mr. Burroughs' friend, John Muir, who is an authority on all nature subjects on the Pacific coast, is only a year younger than Mr. Burroughs.

"The Last Cruise of the Saginaw" by George H. Read, has been added to the list of books for crew's libraries of vessels of the United States Navy.

Have You Tested the Figure Making Possibilities of Nemo Corsets?

The Nemo Self-Reducing Corset is the only Corset we know of that will reduce a stout figure with perfect comfort and safety. They are the outcome of years of study of the feminine figure and are absolutely scientific in construction.

They reduce the stoutest figures, giving them the straight lines, some figure lines, which it is the ambition of every stout woman to obtain, and vastly improve the carriage. The self-reducing devices are patented and can not be used in any other Corset.

Contrary to the ideas of many women, there are also many Nemo models especially built for slender women; models that develop the slender form into lines of beauty and symmetry, giving a healthful, graceful and upright build.

Mrs. Knisley, our corsetiere, will gladly lend her aid and long experience in selecting the proper Nemo model for your particular figure and demonstrate how it should be worn to secure the best results.

Owing to Sunday connections, the Stogies were forced to make the trip to Marion by way of Bellefontaine. Leaving here at 9:10 this morning, they will arrive at Bellefontaine at 11 o'clock and pull into Marion shortly the noon hour. Sunday, "Rudy" Munk will probably be sent to the slab this afternoon while the pitching burden will fall to "Helene" Bush, the new flinger, in the opening game at Mansfield. Bush will join the team at Marion.

STOREKEEPER CLERKS
BEAT MECHANICS

A very interesting game of ball was played between the L. E. & W. Storekeepers and Master Mechanics Clerks yesterday afternoon. The boys of each office had been preparing all week for the contest and the Master Mechanics Clerks with a two run lead in the first half of the ninth inning looked like sure winners.

The Storekeepers Clerks came to the bat for the last time with two runs on the field and three to win. Walter, the first man up, doubled to left and great excitement prevailed. Walther stole third and home and with two outs and two strikes on him, Brockert sent a beautiful three base hit to left, winning the game which seemed practically lost. Both pitchers did good work on the mound with Bowman a slight lead over Weager. The score:

Club	Won	Lost	Pct.
Storekeepers Clerks	3	0	1.000
Master Mechanics Clerks	0	3	.000
Batteries—Storekeepers: Weager and Brockert.

Orpheum Theatre.

The attraction for the first three days of the coming week will be a bright musical comedy, called "The Girl From Daffydill." An extravaganza brim full of sparkling comedy, pretty girls, who present many graceful dances, sing the latest songs and make things lively in general. Also a number of comedians who are leaders in musical comedy work. This comedy was written and staged by Sam M. Reichblum an author of note. There are nine people in the company, all of whom have been selected from the best. Special scenery and gorgeous costumes are one of the features. The Daffydill Girls have been playing over the entire circuit and come to the Orpheum with the highest praise from other managers. "The Girl From Daffydill" will remain only for three days closing on Wednesday, when on Thursday an entire new show will open with Dorothy Lamb & Co. presenting a "Night with the Redmen" as the special feature.

LARGE TIRES AN ADVANTAGESPRING MOTORING EMPHASIZES THE MERITS OF THEIR USE.

"While the principle of the big tire is always right, it seems to me that the season of spring motoring, more than any other time of the year, emphasizes the need of large tires," says W. E. Rudy, local representative of the Chalmers Motor company.

"Just now all of the roads are in poor condition. Even in the cities the pavements are wet and difficult to drive on. The country roads are almost impassable for the car with small tires."

One of the most popular features of Chalmers' design is the use of large wheels and tires, and demountable rims. In the first place, tire trouble has always been the big bugbear of motoring. In Chalmers cars tire trouble is reduced to a minimum. First, the cars are overbuilt. That is, the tires of Chalmers cars carry less weight per horsepower than in most other makes. This obviates much of the possibility of puncture or blow-out. Second, the wheels are large. Every little bump or culvert does not place unusual strain upon the tires. They give them longer life. Third, demountable rims make it easy to change tires when trouble does come. Fourth, the power tire inflater, which is a part of the Chalmers compressed air starting system, does away with the old back-breaking work of inflating tires by hand.

BUCKEYE HATTERS HAVE MOD-ERN QUARTERS AT 140 NORTH MAIN STREET.

Commencing Monday the popular manufacturing hatters, The Buckeye Hatters, will greet you at their new home 140 north Main street. Since taking over the room formerly occupied by Hall, the jeweler, they have went to a great expense in completely remodeling this room. From the elegant electric sign on the outside, to the modern entrance beautifully finished in quarter-sawn oak, to the interior furnishings and fixtures, nothing has been spared to make this store the most elegantly appointed store for the retailing of their celebrated $2.00 Buckeye Hats. Every man in Lima should take especial pride in calling at this store and inspecting their large line of up-to-the-minute hats at their popular price, $2.00. You should also remember that in purchasing this celebrated hat that you are boosting one of Lima's industries, that since locating in this city has achieved a splendid reputation and is today, the largest hat factory in Ohio. Let your next hat be a $2.00 BUCKEYE and purchased at their new home, 140 north Main street.

WILLIAMS

POPULAR MANAGER OF ORPHEUM RETIRED LAST EVENING.

WILL BE SUCCEEDED BY FORMER MANAGER HILTON OF SUN STAFF.

After a service of six years as manager of the popular Orpheum theatre in this city, WILL G. WILLIAMS severed his connection with that playhouse last evening. Today he leaves for his old home at Waynesburg, O., where on Monday his father and mother will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary. Both are eighty years of age, enjoy a wide acquaintance in that part of the state in which they have made their home.

Lima amusement lovers will regret exceedingly to lose Manager Williams, who has been a smiling face and hearty "How-de-do." But all wish him success as manager of the Cuban Circus Company, the duties of which he will assume at once. It is his intention to eventually open an office in Lima and place some of the groves on the market. Mr. E. G. Dempster, of this city, will be associated with him.

Mr. Fred Hilton, who has been on the Sun staff for several years and who is a theatrical manager of recognized ability and whose Lima friends are already quite numerous, will succeed Mr. Williams as manager of the Orpheum.

CHEAPER

BY A FEW CENTS NOW TO FILL THE MARKET BASKET.

EGGS ARE DOWN TO TWENTY CENTS—PLENTY OF GREEN GOODS.

Green goods have been coming in nicely for the past few days, a better quality than has been on the market so far this season. New turnips, carrots, beets, rhubarb, asparagus and beans are arriving, and lettuce is excellent and 5c lower than at any time this year. New potatoes are holding at 80c per bushel. Saturday's shipments of strawberries came with the announcement that the south is not shipping as heavily as anticipated, and the price has gone up to 15c a pint or 30c per quart. New rhubarb will also command an advance of a few cents for the next week or so.

Country produce is coming in fairly well, now that chickens and cows are enabled to find fairly good pasture. Country butter is retailing at 35c with a possible drop predicted for the week, and creamery is but one cent higher. Eggs are down to 20c and plenty of them are coming in. It is not believed they will go above this price now during the open season.

Very little change will be noticed in the prices of meats this week. Shipments of fresh fish are coming in nicely, the lakes being open generally.

LIMA FIRM SECURES CONTRACT.

The National Cornice Co., of Lima, was awarded a $5000 contract for the roofing and copper work of the new Parochial-School building at Delphos, Ohio. This building designed by A. De Curtin, of Lima, will be one of the finest in the diocese. Preparations are being made to lay the corner stone on May 20th on which day Bishop Schrembs visits Delphos.

THE DYNAMITERS

Are Anxious to Have a Game With Some Local Team.

Former Police Detective Dan W. Kelly has a baseball team known as the "Dynamiters" and included among them are some of the amateur players in the city. The lads are anxious to get a game on with some of the local teams and through Mr. Kelly they have issued a challenge to any amateur club in the city or community. All acceptances of the challenge should be sent to Mr. Kelly, who has a place of business on north Main street.

ATTELL KILBANE PICTURES!!

At the Royal Theater Monday and Tuesday will be displayed of the contest between Abe Attell and Johnny Kilbane for the feather-weight championship of the world. Every detail is shown from the time the great audience assembles until Referee Eytan declares Kilbane the winner. The pictures are fully explained; all interesting details being pointed out. Witness the pictures and you will have no doubt about Kilbane's superiority. He shows great cleverness and shiftiness of movement and was always master of the situation. Johnny Kilbane is very popular here and should draw packed houses. In a short time, this young man will be one of the most talked of men in the pugilistic world. Ladies will enjoy this scientific display of boxing and will undoubtedly be there in large numbers. Remember!! Monday and Tuesday.

The Independent Twelve met in their regular session Thursday afternoon April 25th at the home of Mrs. Mabel Pence on North Jackson St. A but two members of the club being present. The business of the meeting was speedily dispatched and a very pleasant social time followed. The hostess presented some very puzzling and interesting contests. At the conclusion a dainty luncheon was served to which all did ample justice.

The weeks of this Spring's social season mark an epoch in the events of Society. The past week, especially, has been one continuous round of luncheons, teas, and bridge parties, and as a crowning climax a pretty wedding just at its close. The favorites this week have been the two brides of the earliest future, Miss Edith Finley and Miss Pearl Grosjean. Compliments and favors have been showered upon them from all sides, while Society has revelled in the beautiful teas and luncheons given in their honor. Particularly numerous have been the affairs complimenting Miss Edith Finley, and as the final close to all the joyous festivities, she became the bride of her betrothed, Saturday. The pretty marriage uniting Miss Edith Finley and Mr. Holmes MacKenzie was solemnized at the residence of Father Schwartner at the hour of seven o'clock, Saturday evening.

The members of the Girls' Bridge club paid homage and tribute to the bride members, Miss Gertrude Wixelbaum and Miss Pearl Grosjean, at a dinner given in their honor at the hotel Norval, Tuesday evening.

Mrs. James W. Halhill presided as hostess at a charming one o'clock luncheon at the Elk's Home, Tuesday, in honor of Miss Pearl Grosjean, entertaining at the same time two other brides, Miss Gertrude Wixelbaum and Miss Elsie Robinson.

In the happy events preceding wedding days, old-time friends have been reunited to rejoice in the joy of their favored ones together. Among these guests are numbered: Miss Edna Lowe, of Kansas City, Mo.; Miss Genevieve Robinson, of Parkersburg, W. Va.; Miss Mary Sheerin, of Indianapolis; Miss Helen Lundergan, of Dubois, Pa.; Mrs. Nano Farabaugh, of South Bend, Ind.; Mrs. Emmett Lawlor of Columbus, and Mrs. A. J. Brown of Wapakoneta.

The new week will be ushered in by another of the Spring weddings long looked forward to by Dame Society—that of Miss Pearl Grosjean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Grosjean, to Mr. Frank Louis Mair, on Tuesday afternoon.

The past week has also practically marked the ending of the literary club season, and clubs will retire from their activities during the summer months, to resume their pleasant work again in October. Annual business meetings and elections of officers have been held by nearly all the clubs of this class and with pleasant memories of the past month's work, the club members have parted. And perhaps in the mind of each, this thought has lingered:

"We have tried to please;
Tell us, ye sovereigns of the new domain,
Are you content, or have we toiled in vain?"

The members of the T. and T. club were very pleasantly entertained at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Terrell-Higer on west Market street Tuesday evening. The program was based upon Shakespeare's "The Tempest," and consisted of the following numbers:

Song—From "The Tempest"—Mrs. John Roby.

Literary Analysis—Mrs. Kent Hughes.

A Scene from the Play—Mrs. Roy Banta.

Songs—"The Tempest"—Mrs. Clem Baxter.

Preceding the program, the usual six o'clock dinner was enjoyed by the guests. Twenty members of the club participated in the meeting.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Will Herring was pleasant hostess of the Colloquium club, at her home on west Wayne street. Twelve members responded to roll call and Mrs. George Kirk was a guest of the club. The afternoon was spent in embroidering and chatting, and at its close, the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Gilbert served dainty refreshments. The club then adjourned to meet in two weeks at the home of Mrs. James Gallaspie, at her home on west High street.

Monday, May sixth, will mark the beginning of the fortieth May Music festival and will be held in Cincinnati. The great event will last for one week and promises to be a grand affair. Among the list of soloists are noted singers, including: Soprano, Madame Gadsden; Contraltos, Mrs. Corinne Rider Kelsey and Mrs. Antoinette Werner West; Tenors, Senor Bond, Mr. Martin, of London, and Mr. Van Hoose; bass Mr. Whitehall, Mr. Witherspoon, and Mr. Cowell; organist, Mrs. Straderman. A few other participants on the program are: the May Festival Chorus, Theodore Thomas Orchestra, a chorus of women's voices, a chorus of mixed voices, a Boys Choir of three hundred, and a chorus of eight hundred children. Beautiful renditions will be given each evening and two matinees will be held.

Many Lima people are planning to attend the splendid musical treat.

Thursday, at her home on west North street, Miss Margaret Colley presided as charming hostess at an evening bridge in honor of Miss Edith Finley. Nine tables were arranged for the game. Baskets of pink blossoms were placed in every available corner in the parlor, while crimson and scarlet blossoms, in baskets and clusters adorned the living room. An interesting series of rubbers was played, at the close of which, Miss Roby Ohler was awarded the ladies' first prize, a silver powder pencil, and Mr. Charles Finley was the recipient of the gent's prize, a pearl stick pin. In conclusion of the festivities, a delicious two-course luncheon was served.

Out-of-town guests participating in the affair were Mrs. Farabaugh, of South Bend, Ind.; Miss Mary Sheerin, of Indianapolis, and Miss Helen Lundergan, of Dubois, Pa.

Miss Grace Huntley, who has just completed a series of performances with Mr. McKee Rankin, in a sketch from Oliver Twist, is spending a three weeks' vacation with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Huntley, of west Market street.

A dainty five o'clock tea, perfect in all its appointments was given for Miss Edith Finley and Miss Pearl Grosjean, by the former's sister, Mrs. Frank Mitchell, Wednesday afternoon.

An enchanting color scheme of yellow and white featured the beautiful decorations. The guests were seated at four small tables. Large baskets of yellow daffodils and white roses traced each table. Place cards were the same blossoms placed upon the glasses. A large table placed in the middle of the dining room was arranged for the two honor guests and a number of close friends. The center of the bride's table was a solid mass of golden daffodils, while place cards were the same as at the other tables.

A delectable menu, faultlessly served in four courses, was carried out in yellow and white. The mints were exceptionally pretty being decorated with yellow daffodils.

Out of town guests enjoying the compliment with the two guests of honor, together with a number of friends in the city, Miss Helen Lundergan, of Dubois, Pa., Miss Mary Sheerin, of Indianapolis, and Mrs. Nano Farabaugh, of South Bend, Ind.

Quite the most delightful club party this week was held at the home of Mrs. H. E. Garling, at 236 south Collett street, Tuesday afternoon.

An interesting program was scheduled for the opening moments of the meeting, and was faithfully carried out. The two daughters of Mrs. O. C. Robinson, Misses Helen and Georgia Robinson rendered several excellent piano selections. Two readings, teeming with human sympathy and expression were almost perfectly read by Mrs. John Patterson, elocutionist, and a guest of the club on this occasion, Mrs. Hubert De Graffe, also gave an interesting reading. A paper, well prepared and well-rendered was given by Mrs. Pabst in conclusion of the program. Responses to roll call were "Problems of Today."

The guests then indulged in a contest of "What you find in Grandmother's Kitchen." As a result of the guessing, Mrs. John Patterson was awarded the prize.

Following these delightful modes of entertainment, the hostess served a delicious luncheon. The delectable menu consisted of:

Escalloped Chicken
Creamed New Potatoes
Celery and Nut Salad
Pickles
Ice Cream
Strawberries
Angels' Food
Reception Sticks

The club then adjourned. The next meeting will be the annual business meeting.

Guests of the club at this pleasant meeting were: Mrs. John Patterson, Mrs. O. C. Robinson, Mrs. Bart Bradley, Mrs. Rollie Zuerchly, Mrs. Milton Wolfe, Mrs. Nichols and Mrs. John Ett.

Complimenting Miss Pearl Grosjean, a bride of next Tuesday, Mrs. A. J. Brown, of Wapakoneta, gave a charming five o'clock tea, at her home, Thursday afternoon. The decorations were carried out in an effective manner, embodying a color scheme of green and white. An attractive centerpiece for the table was prettily arranged with ferns and greenery, and green candles illuminated the happy scene. The menu was faultlessly served in four courses, and adhered closely to the green and white used in the adornments.

Covers were laid for: Miss Grosjean, Miss Edna Lowe, of Kansas City, Mo., Miss Genevieve Robinson, of Parkersburg, W. Va., Miss Gertrude Wixelbaum, Mrs. Emmett Lawlor, of Columbus, Mrs. Frank Mitchell, of Indianapolis, Miss Frances Mair, Miss Julia Mair, Miss Gertrude Finley, Miss Mary Sheerin, of Indianapolis, Mrs. Nano Golly, Frank Baxter, Mrs. Will McHaffey, Parkersburg, Mrs. Clyde Butcher, Mrs. Henry Goetz of Wapakoneta and the hostess.

The W. F. M. S. of Trinity M. E. church will meet at the church at half past two o'clock, Wednesday afternoon, May first, with Mrs. G. I. Wallace, presiding as hostess. The following program will be rendered:

Devotions—Mrs. Farham.
Lesson—Mrs. George McClure.
Reading—"From Darkness to Light"—Mrs. Ferguson.
Reading—"Why I Believe in Foreign Missions"—Mrs. Rolan.
Mystery Box—Miss Erihanan.
Music—In Charge of Mrs. Wallace Landis.
Kindergarten—Mrs. Krafft and Mrs. E. T. Lippincott.

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Connor's committee will serve refreshments.

The members of the Girls' Bridge club gave a charmingly appointed six o'clock dinner in the private dining room of the hotel Norval, in honor of two of the near future, Miss Gertrude Wixelbaum and Miss Pearl Grosjean, Tuesday evening.

The decorations were carried out in a pretty color scheme of yellow and white. Great clusters of daisies adorned the table. Place cards were dainty and pretty, and favors for the guests were a variety of small articles. At the places of the two honor guests were lovely favors of wedding bells.

The dinner was beautifully served, the menu being constituted of:

Fruit Cocktail
Bouillion
Sweet Bread with Pears
Chicken with Dressing
Potatoes
Radishes
Olives
Tomato Salad
Ice Cream
Strawberries Cake
Coffee

Enjoying the compliment with the two honor guests, were Miss Martha Wixelbaum, Mrs. Allan Booth, Mrs. Clyde Butcher, Mrs. Frank Baxter, of Columbus, Mrs. Bertha Borgers, Mrs. Frank Mitchell, Mrs. Walter Jackson, Miss Elsie Cover, Mrs. John Galvin, Mrs. Will McHaffey, Mrs. Louis Landick, Mrs. George Bayly, Miss Edna Lowe, of Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. Nano Golly Farabaugh, of South Bend, Ind., Miss Genevieve Robinson, of Parkersburg, W. Va., Mrs. A. J. Brown, of Wapakoneta, and Miss Helen Lundergan, of Dubois, Pa.

The Misses Elizabeth, Lois, and Bertha Abbott entertained in honor of Miss Pearl Farish, a bride of next month, at their home, 1033 west North street, Wednesday evening.

The time was spent in a pleasant social way. In conclusion of the festivities, a dainty two-course luncheon was served. The guests showered a load of pretty, valuable and useful presents, including beautiful pieces of linen, baton-berg and hand painted china together with their good wishes for her future happiness, upon the honor guest as soon as the repast was ended.

The guests, who participated in the joyful affair, were: Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Brees, Mrs. Mary Ogilvie, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Simon, Mrs. Parks, Mrs. Elmit, Misses Lillie and Clara East, Miss Mollie Scott, Miss Ada Farrell, Miss Florence Bassett, Miss Nora Rechner, Miss Josie Ganshaw, Miss Ola Stewart and Miss Tressa Hdsell.

The Progressives experienced a delightful afternoon at the home of Mrs. Donald Keith, on north Jameson avenue, Tuesday afternoon. Each member named her favorite flower and gave a description of it in response to roll call. The hours were

The Demonstration of La Grecque Corsets Will Continue One More Week April 29th to May 4th at Bluem's

All the New 1912 Models are Present

Our Annual Demonstration of the La Grecque Corsets will continue one more week. Mrs. Dearth, an expert corsetmaker from New York City, who has charge of this demonstration for us, will be pleased to meet the ladies of Lima and vicinity and talk to them on the subject of correct corset fitting.

Mrs. Dearth is well known to many of our customers who can testify to her ability in fitting corsets that give the best service, the greatest comfort, and the most stylish figure. She has models suited to all figures—slender, Stout and medium-stout. A trial fitting by her will prove very satisfactory.

La Grecque Corsets are sold no higher than many inferior makes of corsets. Prices range —$1.50, $2.00, $3.00, $3.50, $4.00, $5.00 and $6.00.

You Are Most Cordially Invited to come in often during this week. Mrs. Dearth and our own corsetmakers will gladly give you any corset information you may desire.

ON THE INSIDE LOOKING OUT.

How prone we are to misjudge things in this old world, and how often we see how very wrong we were, years after. The young or the middle aged never do well looks about at this man and at the other, envying him his seeming ease and comfort. "Lucky dog; doesn't know where the next meal is coming from," he often says. But how few, how very few, of the thousands who gaze at the luxurious, realize or even give time to think of how the same picture might be were they on "the inside looking out."

It may not be envy—that is a harsh word—probably it is ambition, or desire, or wish. Americans are prone to want something even after securing the first wish. It is the rich and successful who should be given credit for inspiring this uplift. The tendency has become almost a disease of late to criticize, even vilify philanthropy when coming from the wealthier classes. Instead of commendation, they get condemnation; but in the great majority of cases they are big enough, broad enough, strong enough, to bear the odium and still go on doing good.

Were we able to get on the inside and look out from their windows we might find their lot, the demands upon their time and their money, greater burdens than we have ever so much as dreamed. Yet carrying these heavy burdens—different of course from yours and ours—but burdens just the same—they still toil on, go on; and it is the very fact of their ability to do so, which has placed them where they are.

Instead of envying, even desiring—they spend their time doing. Failure to do is the trouble with you. You think about it, even plan it—but you fail to do. The difference between the successful and the unsuccessful is just that—doing. The reason for poverty is just the reverse—failing to do. You postpone and become a drone; the successful accomplish and become rich. But success is not happiness, if success be computed as a bank clerk computes—and were you on the inside you would see as much—possibly more of unhappiness, in the wealthier home as in the more humble. Happiness and worldly success are not synonymous; not in the least. But success can be seen; happiness remains in the soul and is a possession which no man can judge in another. But success brings its burdens and it is not all gold that glitters. More millionaires become bankrupts than shoe clerks; more millionaires lose their all than railroaders; more millionaires fail to reach their goal than our poor common folk; but seldom is it that you hear them "whine." Hence there is much in the wealthy to admire and much to praise and study. Because a man has acquired, he shouldn't be crucified. It was his genius that did it, and his ability to do, not complain of his poor opportunities.

Why not learn from the wealthy instead of condemn? Why not study their plan of life and imitate, rather than berate them? Why not see good in them; praise them for their good deeds and try in a small measure to do equally as well in our own station. Decency, honesty, sympathy, are pretty good foundation stones; covetousness is a snake slowly poisoning the mind on which you must depend; selfishness and hatred never brought forth a brood of good thoughts or good deeds. Remember that if you are to go forward, it must be because you are better than the other fellow whom you must pass; and if you are going to be better, why not start studying how, and then start doing. Don't bemoan your fate, don't demean your character; don't envy the fellow higher up, but get a hump on and go out and climb up beside him. And if you do, the picture of how it is when you are on the inside looking out, will show you how unjust you were in your old way of thinking.

SOME SENSIBLE ADVICE.

Lima enjoys the distinction of having more shade trees along her streets and in her yards than any other city of her size in the United States. It isn't necessary to call attention to the fact that grass grows just as green here as elsewhere. But it is not amiss to call attention to the public that trees can suffer at the hands of unskilled trimmers and grass can be blasted where the foot is placed.

At this season grass is more tender than at any other time. A heavy footprint on the lawn will leave its mark long after the lawn-mower has been used. Pavements are made to walk on and Lima is well provided with them. Show a little civic pride and combine it with good common sense, and not only keep off the grass yourself, but see that the other fellow keeps off as well.

This advice ought to fall heavily on your ears. The sidewalk course marks the path of civilization. Taking a cross-cut over the lawn may get you down town more quickly but it doesn't prevent the little uncomplimentary remarks handed out by those that pass your place and see the destruction of the lawn. If you don't know what civic pride means don't take time to consult the dictionary—just keep off the grass and you've demonstrated your pride in your home city. Keep off the grass and people in any part of the city will be glad to have you for a neighbor.

Fifty Years Ago Sunday, April 28.

Fort Jackson and St. Philip surrendered to Captain D. D. Porter, commander of the Federal mortar flotilla. A street mob in New Orleans prevented the mayor from surrendering the city to Farragut's officers, who were at the city hall. First tidings of what was transpiring at New Orleans reached Washington via Richmond Telegraph operator at New Orleans refused to work for "Tankees."

PLAY THE GAME SQUARE.

It is to be regretted that the scandals over petitions for the May primaries have been brought to the light of the public eye. Such politics is always deplorable, and casts a stain on American government which breeds socialism and anarchy. Taking advantage of technicalities is a poor way of gaining the confidence of the voter, and the men who stoop so low are but courting disaster. If there have been forgeries in connection with primary petitions, as alleged by Mr. Welty, the persons using such tactics should be hastened before a special grand jury, tried and duly convicted. But forgeries and technicalities are two different things—the one is criminal; the other is babyish.

Just as many technicalities exist on the one faction's petitions as on the other. The intent of the signer should rule and govern the Board of Elections in its final judgment. Up to this time the Boards of Elections have been held as sacred as the courts; even though they are created by the great big boss of state politics, the Secretary of State; and members selected from among the henchmen of the machines. Despite this Boards of Elections have in the past been found judicial in character, and as the court of last resort, they should hold fairness and honesty above party favoritism and factional prejudice. If our own Board members permit themselves to be used as criminal tools in this instance, they may expect a hereafter. The law is specific, but elastic and not expected to be literally interpreted, any more than our courts so interpret.

The life of the present democratic and republican organizations is at stake in these primary scandals. The public will not stand for peanut, bar-room politics; dark lantern days are over and the calcium reigns today. If the petitions of the many highly respected citizens are thrown out in this hearing except for just cause, enter a prayer for the present organizations, for the steam roller will be as clay in the hands of the mad-dened populace. Just as the public refused to countenance the tactics of the bi-partisan machine last fall, and instead chose a Socialist, so will the public speak again in a sterner tone. Above all we have faith and confidence in the two republican members of the Allen County Board and do not believe they will permit themselves to become pawns to pull the chestnuts out of the fire for the democrats. If they are wise Messrs. Wallace and Guyton will keep hands off and not meddle. Let the people decide the justness of the petitions as filed.

That Ohio man who killed himself because his wife insisted that he move to Indiana may have been justified. Maybe he'd been in Indiana at some time in his life.

In other words, Roosevelt is almost sure that Taft ought to be hung while Taft is willing to compromise by seeing Roosevelt sentenced for life. Oh, they're friendly, all right.

It is believed that the reason Baltimore hotelkeepers have raised their rates during the convention is to prevent guests "singing the houn' dog song."

A St. Louis man started a magazine with $125 and now he is bankrupt. Serves him right. Two bits ought to start a magazine these days.

Happy Thought:—Cultivate a disposition so sweet that you can be satisfied with the weather all the time.

MISS LIMA:—"Several Lima men didn't have a chance to prove their bravery on the Titanic but they're just as well satisfied."

A St. Louis editor says he reads the Springfield poems and eight out of ten of them are good. Good for what?

That congressional investigation will soon conclude now. It only cost $100,000 but since it furnished some right good reading matter guess we can stand it.

The dope sheet is in status quo. The week just closed has brought but little if any changes in the situation as regards the relative positions of the various candidates for nominations on the democratic county ticket. The republican candidates who have tossed their hats into the ring for the preliminary heat have no opposition for places on the primary ticket but the battle among the various factions of the two leading parties, either with or against the two-party machine and the much discussed board of deputy supervisors of elections has served to detract the attention of the laymen of both parties from the campaign of the men who are seeking democratic nominations at the hands of the voters. The spotlight during the entire week just closed has been directed at—constantly at and sometimes upon—the dodging figures of the members of the election board who opened their portion of the spring festival program by playing hide and seek with would-be candidates, candidates' sponsors and sponsors' detectives, while the orchestra, from the pit of uncertainty, played in staccato to the tune of "Give and Take" in the theatre of politics, entitled "Give and Take" sometimes referred to by the inartistic public as "Dog Eat Dog."

The chief actor in the hide and seek game, in which the members of the election board kept well out of sight behind the "set trees" and the "set rocks" on the stage of action, was member John Klatté whom those of anti-machine sympathies charge with having acted in bad faith with the people. They claim that deputy Klatté declared shortly before noon on Saturday a week ago that he would receive nomination petitions from the hour of closing the board of election rooms at 12 o'clock on that day up until midnight on Sunday night but when the petitions were ready for filing, Mr. Klatté was unavailable, as were also the other members of the board. The others however, so far as is known, are not charged with having made any promises about being in the job.

The next move that created a near sensation in that vast audience which is so frequently referred to as the "common people" was made Friday, when John Schick, a political henchman of Mr. Klatté's, filed protests against the nomination papers of 65 democratic candidates for places on the primary ticket. It so happened, too, that all of the candidates for committeemen or delegates to the county convention, against whose papers Schick filed his protests, were representatives of that progressive movement the slogan of which is "Down with Gang Rule and the Bosses." The fact that Mr. Schick confined his protests to trivial technicalities in the petitions of the anti-machine men and the fact that although he has had considerable experience in litigation he is not a lawyer, has led to the belief among the non-members of the party organization that he is a stool pigeon for some one who has an axe to grind; some one who holds a job on the election board or in the party machine and fears he may be compelled to part with that position of trust, influence and power should the names of the anti-machine candidates find places on the primary tickets. Viewing the situation from a position which reveals no possible reason that Schick could have of his own for opposing the anti-machine candidates for committeemen and delegates is not difficult to believe that the protestant never as much as saw the petitions against which he signed protests. Then who did?

The executive officers of the republican organization were at least not afraid to show their hand. Instead of employing Penny Schick or Young Connors to appear in the spotlight as the one destroying the anti-machine candidates from the primary tickets, the unpleasant job was undertaken by chairman John Cable and secretary R. R. Zurnmely, of the republican county committee. They filed protests against the nomination petitions of fifteen of the candidates for committeemen and delegates to the county convention and, like in the case of the democratic machine's protests, the only petition attacked are those that are objectionable to the county organization, because they seek the nomination of men who are antagonistic to the present machine. Although there were a number of "ifs" that were not dotted and a scattering of "b's" that were not crossed in the petitions of the machine democrats and

It is known that there are a number of the leading men of the republican county organization who are opposed to these methods of "peanut politics" as a means of perpetuating the present organization in power. The supporters of president Taft realize that the president's greatest strength lies in the business men and men of affairs generally in the country over, and Lima and Allen county are no exception. Roosevelt's great strength is in the rural districts and in order to offset the support he is receiving from the country the Taft organization hopes and is endeavoring to get the business men interested in the game of politics. It has frequently been said by some of the most prominent men of the present republican organization in this city, that it will be their policy to interest men of affairs in the business world in local politics as a safeguard for the people's rights and to insure good government. Peanut politics, such as is being played by the political machines at the present time tend to drive men from the political arena and to not only lose interest in politics but to lose faith and confidence in the public officials. The rejection of the petitions of candidates for committeemen and delegates by the board of elections, for the sole purpose of preventing the election of large from having an opportunity of voting for these candidates at the polls on the day of the primaries, will widen the breach of confidence between the public and the public's servants; public will be left in the hands of the peanut politicians and gang rule will continue to flourish. It is up to the election board to decide on the protests of the Schick-O'Connor-Bogart-Cable-Zurnmely-Welty-Downing-Zelus combination tomorrow morning. There will be no legal counsel on hand to present the cause of the people and also the cause of the politicians but it will not be difficult for the board to determine what would be just and right. John Klatté has declared the Board is Supreme and that being the case, the public will await with interest to see on which side the board will assert its supremacy.

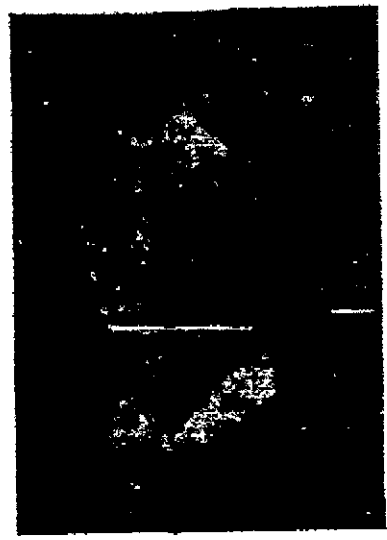

The protests filed by Messrs. Cable and Zurnmely attack the petitions of J. C. Ross, Frank M. Leech, H. T. Conrad, O. E. Holmes, S. F. Smith, W. B. Rudy, Walter Humphreys, R. E. Arthur, J. C. Reynolds and Chas. F. Bailey.

Among the democrats whose petitions are protested by Penny Schick are D. F. Sunderland, A. M. Harrod, J. W. Jacobs, Asbury Place, D. E. Baxter, J. A. Mowery, Jacob Staver, Thomas C. Long, Henry Jaenigen, M. V. Wright, M. F. Boyd, C. C. Ford, Chas. Hessler, John W. Red, John Williams, W. H. Jacobs, J. J. Harden, William H. Hargun, J. Naylor, D. J. Garrett, Jacob Amstutz, J. R. Nicholson, David Amstutz, Samuel Loyer, C. B. Lehman, George Rhodes, E. E. DeLong, Joseph Kill, N. J. Ardner, Frank H. Purdy, G. A. Allmendinger, G. W. Williams, S. W. Kessler and John Michals, of the country precincts, and the following in the city of Lima: H. L. Hunter, E. W. Mosier, John W. Bressler, Phil Min-augh, N. Polshabek, Thomas A. Collins, Charles O'Connor, George Felch, Charles T. Bouike, C. L. Ackerman, H. S. Roach, L. J. Hanley, Walter J. Riche, Walter A. Klefacker, Charles W. Busick, David W. Linton, Peter C. Beck, Henry Blosser, Jas. E. Sullivan, J. J. Callahan, Leo Christen, A. Wein-elbaum, Harold Cunningham, Bruce Geach, J. W. Biddings, John J. Bethie, Max Falk and Michael Mc-Auliff.

Judge R. M. Wannamaker, former Lima school teacher, who is now on the common pleas bench at Akron and who has announced himself a candidate for attorney general of the state of Ohio, in a speech delivered in Chicago before the Illinois state bar association Friday night, made a heavy spotlight play to the galleries by unqualifiedly endorsing the recall of judges. He declared that the power had been given the state legislatures to impeach judges but the legislatures having failed, the right should revert to the people. As also reasons for favoring the recall and his criticism of the present system of the courts he gave the following:

Too much delay.
Too much expense.
Too much idolatry of ancient precedents, the more ancient the more sacred. If the ancient condition has long since passed, the precedent should go with it.
Too many trials and appeals, to the disadvantage of the poor and the advantage of the rich.
Usurpation by courts of legislative right and power.
Too much regard for rule, too little regard for reason.
Too much jugglery of the technical pleader, too little justice for the client.

The proposal of Col. James W. Halchill, member of the Constitutional convention from Allen county, to submit an amendment to the Ohio constitution so as to provide for the election of a judge of the court of common pleas in each county in the state, thus making each county a separate election district for the election of such resident judges, was adopted by the convention last week by a vote of 94 yeas to 12 nays. The amendment pro-video that although each judge will be elected in his home county, each will have authority to occupy the common pleas bench in any county in the state, thus according relief to the counties where the court dockets are too heavily crowded with cases. The judge in counties where the dockets are light, may, it is proposed, temporarily, preside and hold court in any other county until such time as the general assembly shall make adequate provision for the counties of large population or greater amounts of litigation. It is also provided that the electors of any county, if they by a majority so decide, may at an election cause the court of common pleas and the probate court of the county to be combined and presided over by the one resident judge.

The Roosevelt campaign committee is now hard at work throughout the county and are claiming Allen for the Colonel. Miner Atmar, Doctor Pence, Don Henderson, George Muntis, Clark Bennett and a dozen others are gathering nightly at headquarters and literature is now being sent out in every precinct. On Tuesday there will be a district meeting for final plans. Darkie and delivering speeches and waiting for the count of the ballots in cer and Auglaize are said to be hope.

tile, and Roosevelt workers will center in Shelby as the pivotal county.

The county candidates are having a hard time telling their side of the story because of the movement in the fight for control of the Central Committee and the coming county conventions. While was thought the present republican committee would have no opposition worthy the name, the Board of Elections should they play "machine politics" in the hearing of the ridiculous objections to some of the petitions, there is liable to be the dance to pay, for with the Roosevelt strength and the anti-machine sentiment combined, the somebody is liable to lose control of the committee. As it stands the two organizations have a chance to win on straight issues, but the peanut game may lose the battle for either.

Hon. Charles C. Marshall, of Shelby county, who was a candidate for the democratic nomination date for congress at the primary two years ago, and who is now an assistant in the office of Attorney General Hogan, has been appointed to membership on the State Bar Examination Committee. He was chosen by Governor Judson Harpmon to succeed Judge Joseph W. O'Hara, of Cincinnati, who has been advanced to a place on the bench of the supreme court of the state, succeeding the late Judge James L. Price, of this city.

The retirement of Charles Wyman, of Shelby county from the race for the democratic nomination for congress in the Fourth district last week, leaves the field now entirely open to Hon. J. H. Goske, of Auglaize county, without the least semblance of opposition. All the opposition Mr. Wyman would have been able to muster in the campaign would not have caused Mr. Goske any loss of sleep for he was never in the race only so far as having one's name announced goes. The republicans have not nominated a candidate against Mr. Goske and now on how can he pay his attention to answering correspondence, sending out garden seeds, writing and delivering speeches and waiting for the count of the ballots in cer and Auglaize are said to be hope.

Your Money's Worth In An Automobile

No man likes to pay more than he has to for anything. No The secret of economical buying is to buy only what one needs; or, to put it another way, to pay only for what one can use.

Now, in automobile buying, the thing you really pay for—the one thing you can use—is service. The one real return for your money is transportation-service. A car carries you while you own it, a certain number of miles; and when you check up these miles against the cost and maintenance of your car, you know what this service has cost you.

When you buy an "Everitt 30" you come into possession of four thousand dollars worth of service, for which you have paid twelve hundred and fifty dollars. You are charged nothing for the name (thought it is a good name), you pay nothing for elegant offices; high-salaried officials; expensive branches, or unnecessary weight and power (that you cannot use.)

The "Everitt" is an intensely practical, servicable car, manufactured in a real machinery plant, by practical machinists. Every dollar of value has gone into the car. It will carry you, in a day, or a year, as far, as fast, and as comfortably, as any automobile that you can name. It will stand up and do its work under any conditions, with less trouble, expense and worry than any other. And it will give you, in the long run, the utmost service, and the utmost value, for your money. Does not this sound like sense? It is true. Come and See the car.

basily occupied in doing fancy seedwork, at the close of which the hostess served a dainty luncheon. Mrs. John Martin and Miss Doris Phillips were guests of the club.

The next meeting will be held in two weeks, at the home of Mrs. Ed Smith.

Mrs. Paul Agertier entertained at a luncheon and bridge at her home on Lakewood avenue, Monday afternoon. In the interesting series of rubbers played, Mrs. Jack Lutz held the highest score. At the conclusion of the game, the hostess served a dainty buffet luncheon. The members of the Monday bridge, and the following substitutes, Mrs. Oliver Steiner, Mrs. Frank McKee, Mrs. George Bayly, and Mrs. W. H. Leece, enjoyed the genial hospitality of their hostess.

With the coming of the summer days, and the absence of our literary club meetings, the members of the Monday Bridge will meet weekly instead of every two weeks. On Monday afternoon, Mrs. W. T. Agertier will be the hostess for the club.

The members of the Twentieth Century Club held their last meeting of this season at the home of Mrs. Basinger, Monday evening.

The annual election of officers was held, resulting as follows: Mrs. Will Stewart, president; Mrs. Fred Becker, vice president; Mrs. D. E. Kamp, secretary and treasurer; Miss Larina Jones, critic; and Mrs. Mollie, assistant critic.

A very interesting summary of the year's work was given by Mrs. Stewart, after which the club adjourned to meet no more until next October.

Ten members of the Round Table enjoyed a very pleasant meeting at the home of Mrs. J. W. Tucker, at 772 south Broadway, Monday afternoon. Mrs. George Quaid led in the history lesson, which was very interesting. Mrs. George Robinson gave an excellent account of the life of De Lesseps, the builder of the Suez canal, the construction of which occurred in 1859 to 1869, and his great work.

On next Monday, the last meeting of the year will be held at the home of Mrs. Sheiby Mummaugh, on west Market street. This will be a social and business meeting combined, and during the business session, the election of officers will be held.

The members of the Arbutus club closed a highly satisfactory season's work, when they held their annual business meeting at the home of Mrs. Harry Moulton on west Market street, Monday afternoon. Officers for the new year's work were elected as follows: Mrs. J. E. Grosjean, president; Mrs. Charles Price, vice president; Mrs. Warren McLaughlin, secretary; Mrs. F. T. Cuthbert, assistant secretary; and Mrs. W. A. Campbell, critic.

A pleasant social session followed, and the ladies chatted over cups of fragrant tea, served by the hostess. The club finally adjourned to hold their next meeting on the first Monday in October.

The Sorosis met at the home of Mrs. Gensel, Monday afternoon. The meeting was a pleasant social one, and the last of that kind to be held this spring.

The annual business meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Fred Thompson next Monday evening. Mrs. Armstrong, the only guest, enjoyed the meeting with fifteen members of the club. After a pleasant afternoon spent in chatting and merriment, the hostess served a delicious, two-course luncheon. The club then adjourned.

The Chionian club held its election of officers at the home of Mrs. Nansen, Monday afternoon. Because of the absence of some of the members, all the new-elects have not yet accepted their respective offices.

The last meeting of the year will be a social one, and will be held at the home of Mrs. L. W. Hiner, on south Elizabeth street, next Monday evening. An elaborate seven o'clock dinner will be served.

Mrs. C. E. Thomas was hostess to the Philomathean club members at her home on west Spring street, Monday evening. Twelve members responded to roll call, by giving brief discussions of the past year's work. Mrs. Seymour was a guest of the club. Mrs. Pence read a well-prepared original paper on "Modern Philosophers," and Mrs. Charles Lathrop, in a very interesting manner, outlined the lives of two writers, H. G. Wells and Bernard Shaw. The club will hold its annual business meeting with Miss Jessie Boone, next Monday evening. This will be the closing meeting of the year.

Mrs. Luah M. Butler gave another of her interesting and valuable cooking lessons to the girls of the Business Women's Club, Tuesday evening. The menu was constituted of Spring dishes, particularly emphasizing the cooking of vegetables. This lesson marked the ending of the term.

A pretty informal luncheon, honoring Miss Grosjean, was given by Mrs. Clyde Butcher at her home on west North street, Friday afternoon. The prettily laid table was graced by a huge cluster of pink lily-pinks. A delicious menu was served. Seated at the table were: Miss Grosjean, Miss Edna Lowe, Miss Genevieve Robinson, Mrs. J. E. Grosjean, and the hostess.

The meeting of the Bay View club has been postponed until May seventh, instead of meeting Monday, April twenty-ninth, as previously announced. The meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Julia Simpson, of west Wayne street.

The D. A. E. will have their regular meeting at the residence of Mrs. Charles Winters, at 701 west North street, Saturday, May fourth, at half past two o'clock. All members are urged to be present, as this will be the annual business meeting.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Knights met at the home of Mrs. Matthew McNamara, at 836 north Main street, Wednesday afternoon. As guests of the club, Mrs. Akers, Mrs. Margaret O'Connor, Mrs. James Duffield, Mrs. Mary Mulcahy, Mrs. R. J. Lawlor, Mrs. Donahoe and Mrs. Henry O'Brien, enjoyed the hours with the ladies of the club.

Cards occupied the attention and interest of the guests during the early part of the afternoon. At the conclusion of the games, Miss Mary Diamond was awarded the first prize, a set of silver orange spoons. The guest prize was won by Mrs. James Duffield, and the consolation prize was received by Mrs. Akers.

Before departure for their respective homes, the guests partook of a delicious two-course luncheon served by the hostess.

The Court of Honor Sewing Circle enjoyed a pleasant evening at the home of Mrs. Bushong, on Fairview avenue, Wednesday. Eight members of the club were present. The time was spent in social greetings and conversation, and at the conclusion, the hostess served a delicious, four-course luncheon.

Mrs. B. E. Leatherman, of Toledo, will arrive, Wednesday, for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Frey.

Mrs. H. B. English and nephew, Leon Long, have gone to Sistersville, W. Va., to attend the graduation of the high school there, where on May twenty-fourth, Miss Irene English, daughter of Mrs. English, is a graduate.

Friends in the city are recipients of the announcement of the marriage of Miss Lucille Argue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Argue of Toledo, to Mr. Herman A. Hill, a prominent business man of that city. Miss Argue is well and popularly known in Lima.

Mr. Frank Kurbush and bride, of Chicago, who were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lomison and Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Thompson, of south Main street, on their wedding trip, have returned to Milwaukee, Wisconsin, where the groom is engaged in business, and has a cozy home prepared for his bride.

As a compliment to Miss Pearl Grosjean, Mrs. Nemo Golley Farabaugh entertained at an afternoon bridge, at the home of her mother, Mrs. Golley, on west North street, Friday afternoon. Four tables of bridge were played, and as a result of the interesting series of rubbers, Miss Frances Mair was awarded the first prize, a pretty silver and glass bon-bon dish. A dainty two-course luncheon concluded the festivities.

Out-of-town guests enjoying the occasion with the honor guest and her friends of this city, were Miss Edna Lowe of Kansas City, Mo.,

Miss Helen Lundergan, of Dubois, Pa., and Miss Mary Sheerin, of Indianapolis.

One of the very prettiest affairs of the week was a one o'clock luncheon at the Elk's Home, given by Mrs. James W. Halfhill in honor of Miss Pearl Grosjean, Tuesday afternoon. Two other brides, Miss Gertrude W. Hestelbaum and Miss Elsie Robinson, enjoyed the compliment with the honor guest.

In the center of the prettily laid table was a large basket brimful of pink sweet peas and white roses. The fragrant blossoms were arranged in corsage bouquets, and after the luncheon was over, were given as favors to each guest. The place cards were neat little affairs, and pretty pink doily baskets containing nuts and candy, were found at each place. Pink candles with pink silk shades added a touch of color to the whole effective scheme.

The delectable menu was faultlessly served, and consisted of: Fruit Cocktail served in Grape Fruit Shells

Bouillion Celery Spring Lamb Peas

Bread and Butter Vegetables Salad Cheese Wafers Ice Cream moulded in baskets with Whipped Cream and Strawberries Cake

The guests who graced the table were: Miss Grosjean, Miss Welzelbaum, Miss Robinson, Miss Edna Lowe, Mrs. Nemo Golley-Farabaugh, Mrs. Frank Baxter, Miss Gertrude Finley, Miss Mary Sheerin, Miss Frances Mair, Miss Julia Mair, Mrs. Esther Wheeler Butcher, Mrs. Murray Campbell, of Des Moines, Iowa; Mrs. Roy Banta and Mrs. Halfhill, hostess.

The members of the Fleur-de-lis club were pleasantly entertained on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Schenk of Miller avenue, a large attendance of members being present. Fanny sewing and merry chatting was the mecca of the afternoon. Two contests were also held in which Mrs. Elmer Roberts was the lucky recipient of the first prize, a fancy jabot, while Mrs. Clyde Cook was the successful contestant in the second receiving a pretty spoon and thimble rack. After these festivities were ended, the hostess served a delicious lunch which consisted of: Pimento Sandwiches, Pickles Potato Salad Marshmallow Pudding Angel Food Cake Coffee

Guests of the club were Mrs. Frank Miller, of Delphos; Miss Minnie Schenk, Mrs. Harold Simmons, Mrs. Charles Lavery. The next meeting will be held in two weeks at the home of Mrs. Elmer Roberts at the corner of Market and Pine streets.

WILL GIVE $500 TO SICK READERS OF THE NEWS

Indiana Scientist Who Originated the Now Famous "Home Treatment" Offers Large Package Free to Sick and Ailing.

In order that every reader of the News who needs treatment may have an opportunity to test this celebrated medicine, the now famous Indiana scientist has come to the front with an offer to give absolutely free a large proof package to five hundred readers of this paper to prove the wonderful claims which have been made for it. In making this offer the scientist said: "I know that there are many people who have been suffering for years with some chronic disease and many of them have spent large sums of money seeking a cure. I know that these people hesitate about investing money in medicine because they have despaired of ever getting well. Thousands have told me that story and many thousands of the same people have told me afterwards that my treatment had cured them after doctors and every thing else had failed. I want to show these despairing people that all the newspaper talk about my treatment is absolutely true. I want to prove to a limited number—no matter what the disease, no matter how long they may have suffered, no matter how blue and discouraged—that my treatment really and actually does accomplish the wonderful results that have been reported."

People who suffer from Rheumatism, Kidney Trouble, Stomach Trouble, Liver or Bowel Disorders, Catarrh, Bronchitis, Asthma, Chronic Coughs, Weak Lungs, Lumbago, Piles, Urinary Disorders, Female Weaknesses of any kind, the weak, worn out, broken-down, and despondent will be delighted at the effect of a few doses. This wonderful treatment creates a fine appetite and helps the digestive organs to carry on their functions as they should. It strengthens the kidneys, too, and drives rheumatism poisons from the blood as if by magic. That is why people who try it become enthusiastic.

Any reader of the News who will try this extraordinary medicine that has created so much excitement by its cures can obtain absolutely free a liberal treatment by simply filling in the coupon below or writing a letter describing their case in their own words, if they prefer, and mailing it today to James W. Kidd, Ft. Wayne, Indiana. No money need be sent and no charge of any kind will be made.

As this offer is limited, you should write at once, in order to be sure to receive your free treatment.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH

Could Hardly Eat. Gradually Grew Worse. Relieved by Peruna.

Mr. A. M. Ikard, Box 31, West Burlington, Iowa, writes: "I had catarrh of the stomach and small intestines for a number of years. I went to a number of doctors and got no relief and finally one of my doctors sent me to Chicago, and I met the same fate. They said they could do nothing for me; said I had cancer of the stomach and there was no cure. I almost thought the same for my breath was offensive and I could not eat anything without great misery, and I gradually grew worse. "Finally I concluded to try Peruna, and I found relief and a cure for that dreadful disease, catarrh. I took five bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin, and I now feel like a new man. There is nothing better than Peruna, and I keep a bottle of it in my house all the time."

song cycle, sung by Mrs. Clem Baxter, accompanied by Miss Edna Peate, and a reading by Mrs. Kent Hughes will be interesting feature in being prepared for the momentous event. The regular annual monthly dinner will be served.

The Misses Madonna and Angela Zeigler, of Muskogee, Okla., are guests at the home of their aunt, Mrs. John Meyers, of the Steiner flats.

Mrs. C. F. Lufkin was hostess at a pleasant informal affair given for the members of the Women's Bridge and a few friends, Monday afternoon. The guests participated in a standing luncheon at half after twelve o'clock, after which an interesting series of rubbers occupied the remainder of the afternoon. An extra table of bridge was arranged in honor of Miss Florence Lufkin, of Rye, N. Y., whose guests were Misses Katherine and Roby Ohler, and Mrs. Earl Swan.

There will be a special called meeting of the Sorosis at the home of Mrs. Fred Thompson, on West High street, at seven o'clock, Monday evening. All members are requested to be present, as business of importance is to be transacted.

Miss Grace Gibson, of Berkeley, California, is a guest of Miss Ruth Parmeter.

The District meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs of the north-western part of Ohio convenes at Sandusky, Wednesday, May 1st.

Miss Nana Golley Farabaugh, of South Bend, Ind., is a guest at the home of her mother, Mrs. Emma Golley, of 215 west North street.

Miss Genevieve Robinson, of Parkersburg, W. Va., is a guest of friends in the city.

Miss Mary Sheerin, of Indianapolis, is a guest at the home of her uncle, Mr. John Finley.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Parmley, of 127 south Metcalf street, left Tuesday morning for Benton Harbor, Michigan. Mrs. Parmley will be remembered by many of our readers as Mrs. Llewellyn, who made her home in this city many years.

Miss Edna Lowe, of Kansas City, Mo., whose home was formerly in this city, is a guest of Miss Pearl Grosjean and other friends in the city.

Mrs. E. P. Wilkins is visiting at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. H. Hill, of Fremont.

A daintily appointed one o'clock luncheon as a compliment to Miss Edith Finley, was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Baxter, on south McDonald street, Tuesday, with Miss Hilda Baxter presiding as the charming young hostess.

The center of the table was graced by a large basket filled with fragrant lavender sweet peas. Small white swan vases each bearing a cluster of the same lavender sweet peas stood on the table. The place cards were miniature birds placed on the pretty glasses at each place, and the honor guest's place was marked by a corsage bouquet of white daisies and white sweet peas. The menu was beautifully served in four courses.

Served at the table were: Miss Finley, Miss Margaret Golly, Miss Florence Lufkin, Miss Roby Ohler, Miss Katherine Ohler, Miss Louise Holdridge, Miss Marguerite Mitchell, Mrs. Earl Swan, Miss Alice Thompson, Miss Marie Decker, Miss Helen Lundergan, of Dubois, Pa., and Miss Hilda Baxter.

Mrs. R. D. Miller returned from a month's visit at Bluefield, W. Va., and at her old home in Roanoke, Va., Thursday.

Mrs. Vera Watson, who left for Boston, Thursday, will sail from that point for England, Tuesday, on the steamer, Laconia. She will land at Queenstown, England, where which place she will cross the channel, going to Dresden, where she will continue her musical studies.

Mrs. Friedley, of east High street, who has been visiting relatives at Ada, has returned to her home.

A well-appointed dinner at which Mr. Harley Holmes presided as host was given in honor of Mr. Holmes Mackenzie and Miss Edith Finley, Thursday evening, at his home.

A profusion of fragrant white roses featured the decorations. The place-cards were adorned with small brides and grooms. The delectable menu was served in five courses.

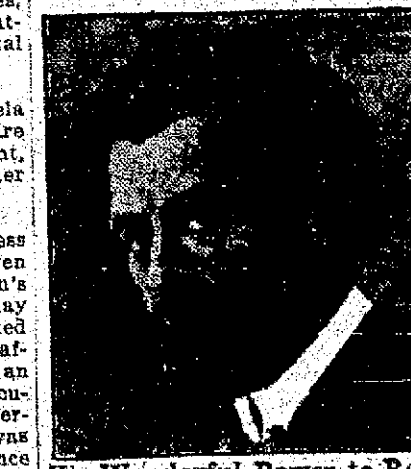

Courses were laid for: Miss Edith Finley, Miss Helen Lundergan, Miss Margaret Golly, Miss Louise Holdridge, Miss Marguerite Mitchell, Mrs. Earl Swan, Miss Alice Thompson, Miss Marie Decker, Miss Helen Lundergan, of Dubois, Pa., and Miss Hilda Baxter.

The Chautauquians will meet with Miss Grace Hutton, instead of Miss Gordon, Monday evening.

NOTICE! CHANGE IN BANK CLOSING HOURS.

The banks of Lima, adopting the custom of banks in cities of this size or larger, hereby give notice that beginning with May 11th we will close our doors at noon on Saturdays, in compliance with the law which makes Saturday afternoon a legal holiday.

We also wish to give notice that from and after that date there will be no "back door" business transacted after the regular closing hours, which are as follows: Open at 8:30 a. m., closing at 2:30 p. m. every day except Saturday when the hour for closing will be 12 noon.

We hope the people of the community will appreciate the effort to put some system into the practices in this respect, and arrange their business so that it can be transacted during the hours set apart for that portion of the banks' work, leaving the employees free to keep up their records during the balance of the day.

LETTERS TO EDITOR. Editor Daily News: After reading the editorial "Potomac Dog," I want to say I know of at least one brute in Lima, who deliberately went out of his way to put poison in one homestead on the Shawnee road not long ago. I do not know who he is, and he may never see these lines, but his object was accomplished in the ill-fated companion of all my hours died after suffering untold agony for two days and one night. If the brute could have had one looked into the petful eyes of my dog as she gazed at me with all the love her little heart could give, it would have haunted him to his dying day. There was no cause for such a deed as the dog was never out of the yard unless with some one of the family. I surely sympathize with Rev. A. A. Murphy of New Brunswick, N. J. As he says "I would far rather do without my true, loving, little friend than face God with such an unwarrantable, cruel, evil deed." I believe the two brave little sufferers have received their reward in a place of rest some where. —Mrs. B. L. B.

This Week We Introduce a Complete Display of SHAWNEE Footwear for Women

We had hoped to announce this complete showing of "Shawnee" Boots and Oxfords previously, but belated shipments have caused our delay. "Shawnee," named from the historic Indians who once roamed over the vast prairie where Lima and the Big Store now stand, is our own special brand of Women's $4.00 Footwear—made for us by D. Armstrong & Co., Rochester, N. Y., a firm with world wide reputation for fine footwear, and who, by the way, confine their splendid product exclusively to the Big Store in Lima.

"Shawnee" Footwear is best described thus—$6.00 Styles; $5.00 Qualities; $4.00 Price.

—In other words you can't duplicate the styles at less than $6.00, the qualities at $5.00, or the making, quality and styles combined at $4.00.

In it they have reached a degree of perfection attained in no other shoe. The pumps do not gap at the sides or slip at the heels. Our shoe salesmen will take great pleasure in showing you these new "Shawnee" styles and fitting your feet perfectly—just as they should be—but rarely are.

SHAWNEE BOOTS, $4.00 Pair.
Other Good Stylish Boots and Oxfords, $2.50, $3.00 and $3.50 pair.

Pumps and Oxfords, $4.00 pair.

Millinery At $3 to $10

Despite their small prices, these hats have all the charm featured in higher priced models. They are hats which will make the wearer look her best; that will emphasize her best features and give her whole costume the effect of harmony.

The prices, $3 to $10, includes large, medium and small hats, ribbon, flower and lace trimmed. Hats for girls, for young matrons, for mature women.

Each model has some striking individuality of its own—hence exclusiveness is assured as well as becomingness.

A great showing of children's hats, scores of attractive styles for small folks of all ages, 25c to $5.00.

Summer Street Gowns

One is one of the new "Little Girl" hats of blue straw, with draped crown; in the corner another "Little Girl" hat of gray satin ("Lucile") models.

The New Long Fitting Sleeves, the New 'Tucked Up' Drapery, the New Little Girl Hat.

As to trimmings, embroideries still take precedence, and particularly those of Egyptian and Persian design. The craze for colors still continues and increases. Buttons have been brought to the top again by the latest turn of Fashion's wheel, and there seems a preference for those of the plain crystal variety, both for the fastening and finishing of tailored coats and suits or serge gowns.

As to founces, those of the low-necked and short-sleeved variety will undoubtedly take precedence of all others; though, here again there is plenty of choice and change in the freedom accorded to throat and arms. The other extreme of neckwear—the collar continued in a high point under each ear—is once more making a bid for favor, but no woman who has ever enjoyed the comfort and realized the becomingness of a down-turned collar is ever likely to endure such bondage again.

LADY DUFF-GORDON, the famous "Lucile" of London, and foremost creator of fashions in the world, writes each week the fashion article for this newspaper, presenting all that is newest and best in styles for well-dressed women.

Lady Duff-Gordon's new Paris establishment brings her into close touch with that centre of fashion.

Lady Duff-Gordon's American establishment is at No. 17 West Thirty-sixth street, New York City.

By Lady Duff-Gordon ("Lucile")

HERE are some more new Summer models of gowns and hats. I cannot help thinking them very charming. Please notice the large hat on the figure in the photograph.

Got a Job

THERE is a true story of a young woman who had devoted almost a year to using all possible influence to gain an interview with a certain theatrical manager. At last her hopes were realized. She got her appointment, and she was finally ushered into the manager's private office. He received her most cordially and offered her a chair.

"Thank you," she said, gracefully. "I think I will sit down. I've been just ten months getting here and I'm a little tired."

And the manager, who is really a great man, and hence has a sense of humor, promptly engaged her.

This is an up-to-the-minute Lucile model that has delighted Paris. The hat is white, lined with purple, and is edged with black lace. It has a large white satin bow and streamers. It is really an enlarged edition of a little girl's hat.

The gown is an evening dress of black patterned charmeuse. The drapery is in the new mode, and I wish you to look closely at the arrangement of the bodice, with the sleeves emerging from the folds.

The full-length sketch is one of my newest and favorite Spring models. It is in mustard-colored taffeta, and had the new draped-up skirt and the newest "outline." The waistband is of clear dull Oriental satin edged with old blue.

Please note the long, light sleeves, for this also is a very up-to-date touch in the Summer fashions.

Another "little girl" hat of gray satin. I show you in the sketch. It is bordered with satin of deep blue. The flowers are of pale yellow satin tied with blue ribbon. The second hat is of blue straw, with the top of the crown draped in blue satin. It is held in place with silver ribbon, which is tied on the top of the crown.

In these two little hats I show you the very latest thing in Parisian millinery, so far as the Summer close-fitting headgear of the season is concerned. There are two tendencies—the big hat and the close-fitting little hat. There is this season no between size hats. The big hats either spread enormously like sunshades, or go shooting up in the air like fountains with masses of mountains of curious fabrics.

For evening gowns very boldly patterned brocades of silk and tinsel are going to be much used, in conjunction with soft-textured laces—especially of the malines variety—and fringes either of silk or beads. These, of course, for the more elaborate creations favored by older women, though for simpler gowns nothing will now or ever rival soft satin and charmeuse and the ninons, whose soft semi-transparency permits of double and triple voilings, and different colorings being used together,

The Roaring Sun Spots By Garrett P. Serviss

YOU will see on this page a photograph, made at the Yerkes observatory, of a terrific group of sun spots. Such groups, which look as if the sun had been peppered with projectiles thousands of miles in diameter, sometimes extend over a length of a HUNDRED THOUSAND MILES.

A single sun spot has occasionally been seen 50,000 miles in diameter, with an apparently black center 25,000 miles across! They frequently cover areas of MANY MILLIONS OF SQUARE MILES.

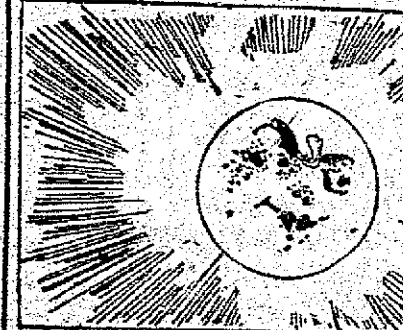

It is now believed that sun spots are caused by gigantic whirls in what may be called, for lack of a better term, the atmosphere of the sun. As Director C. G. Abbot, of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, says, "We may imagine that these vortices form at sea, with the trumpet-shaped part at the top, and the whirl carrying matter from below outward."

The friction of their swift motion gives rise to electrical charges, which produce the effect of currents of electricity, and create tremendous magnetic fields, which Professor Hale has found to be characteristic of sun spots.

In this way they react upon the earth, causing widespread magnetic storms, which produce magnificent displays of the aurora borealis, or northern lights, and sometimes make jets of flame leap from telegraphic instruments, and

A Great Sun Spot Group.

Photographed at the Yerkes Observatory, October, 1903. It covers millions of square miles, and is veiled with gigantic, glaring clouds of calcium vapor.

A Remarkable Sun Spot.

This photograph was taken by Dr. Janssen, and shows the willow-leaved structure of the penumbra of the spots and the granulated structure of the whole of the photosphere.

Similar to Tornadoes.

Sun spots might also be likened to tornadoes, in which there is a similar trumpet-shaped whirl of funnel through which heavy objects such as the fragments of houses, barns and trees, and sometimes animals and human beings are sucked up toward the clouds that gyrate round the broadened top of the funnel. But while a great tornado on the earth has a path only a few rods wide, THE SOLAR TORNADOES ARE THOUSANDS OF MILES WIDE and probably THOUSANDS OF MILES DEEP.

If the earth were caught in one of those gigantic whirls on the sun it would be spun about like a boat in the Niagara eddies. But it would not last long, for the intense heat would quickly dissolve the solid rocks into fiery liquid and vapor.

It is a curious fact that our tornadoes sometimes occur in groups as do sun spots. A dozen tornadoes will occasionally break out simultaneously, a hundred miles, or more apart. Yet the resemblance between tornadoes and sun spots can only be superficial.

One of the most fearful things connected with tornadoes is the awful roar that accompanies their passages. But a sun spot must create a noise on the sun thousands of times greater than that of the mightiest tornado, and if the atmosphere extended from the earth to the sun there can be little doubt that we should be able to hear the ROAR OF SUN SPOTS. But there is a gap of space more than ninety million miles across between the earth and the sun and that gap is filled with nothing except the ether, which, although it bears the waves of light and electricity, cannot carry sound waves. Consequently the uproar of the sun spots is inaudible on the earth. Many years ago Edison made some experiments intended to render the howling of sun spots audible by means of a gigantic megaphone telephone, actuated by the electric waves from the sun. But the effort did not succeed. Perhaps some day a similar attempt may be successful, and if it should be the ears of man would be greeted with sounds such as were never before dreamed of. To listen to the RAGING AND ROARING OF THE TORMENTED SUN, ninety-three million miles away, would be an experience surpassing all the other achievements of human ingenuity.

The cause of sun spots remains unknown. They are probably due to some action going on within the body of the sun. The sun consists of substances resembling those of which the earth is formed—such as iron, calcium, silicon and other elements out of which our rocks are made, but owing to the intense heat, these substances instead of being solid are in the state of hot glowing vapors. The immense size of the sun—886,000 miles in diameter—causes these vapors and gases of which it consists to be subjected to enormous pressure, and titanic explosions occur from within, shooting vast masses of glowing matter to a height of TEN, AND SOMETIMES HUNDREDS OF THOUSANDS OF MILES.

Every Eleven Years.

Sun spots appear in cycles, or periods, averaging about eleven years from one maximum to the next. The latest sun spot maximum occurred in 1906, and we are now at a minimum stage in the period, although the sun is seldom entirely free from spots for several months in succession.

One of the great problems of astronomy is to determine the exact effect of sun spots upon the earth. It is evident that when the sun is much spotted there must be some reduction in the amount of heat received from it, because the dark spots are cooler than the surrounding surface, and in fact, many observations have led to the conclusion that the earth's temperature is perceptibly lower at a sun spot maximum (that is when there are many and large spots) than at a minimum. But the difference of temperature is larger than the mere darkness caused by the spots would account for, and it is thought that the presence of the spots causes some change in the sun's radiation of heat, over and above that due to the relative coolness of the spots.

Then, independently perhaps of the spots, there are changes of the sun's radiation in periods of several days, or of several months, which cause a fluctuation of temperature amounting to from five to ten per cent of the whole. It is manifest that such changes must have some effect upon the climates of the earth. They, together with the sun spots, are also, probably, indications that the sun is slowly dying out as a great centre of light and heat. In other words, THE SUN IS A VARIABLE STAR, and the fate of the earth is, directly dependent upon it. Astronomers find in the sky many other variable stars, some many times greater than the sun; and hundreds of them are farther advanced toward extinction than the sun is. How long the sun will last we do not know, but it is believed that it will continue to shine for from five to ten million years—so we are not personally concerned with its approaching end. But if humanity continues to exist on the earth the time will come when the failure of the sun will be the greatest and most fatal fact confronting the descendants of Adam.

Was Interested

THE customer had waited fifteen minutes for the fish he had ordered. He was very quiet as he sat there, but internally he was seething. At the end of the fifteenth minute the waiter, who had been in total eclipse for fifteen and one-half minutes, bustled up.

"That fish will be here, sir, in five minutes."

Five minutes elapsed three times. Then the waiter bustled up again.

"The fish will be here, sir, in a minute."

"Tell me," said the patient one, "but with a certain emphasis, 'what bait are you using?'"

A Soft Answer.

A somewhat tactless youth had taken an unwarranted liberty in criticizing the new hat of a lady friend, and she was about to say that she was not inclined to be dictated to by any man.

"I do not propose"—she began, but he interrupted her.

"If you did," he murmured, "I should certainly say 'Yes.'"

And his offense was immediately forgiven.

Feline Feeling.

First Cat—How sweetly you sing! I never heard anything so entrancing. What was that last song?

Second Cat (contentedly)—"If I had nine thousand lives to live, I'd live them all for you."

An Ancestral Joke.

Visitor (to butler, who is showing him through the picture gallery of the old mansion)—That's a fine portrait. Is it an old master?

Butler—Oh, no, sir; that's the old mistress!

Her Own Fault.

Lady—The salmon that I bought of you yesterday wasn't fresh!

Fishmonger—Then why didn't you buy it sooner? I offered it to you last week, but you wouldn't have it then.

It Depended.

Host—Won't you try a piece of my wife's angel cake?

Guest—Will it make an angel of me?

Host—That will depend on the kind of a life you have led.
